OSTEND IS CAPTURED FROM GERMANS

RECRUITING BEGUN IN ALL DISTRICTS

Call to Arms for Second Contingent From Canada is Quickly Answered

DISTRICT ENLISTMENT CONSIDERED BEST PLAN

Canada's Record in Moving
First Body of Troops Considered Good One

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Recruiting sixteen thousand infantry to be raised immediately was commenced throughout Canada last night. According to advices received by the militia department recruits came forward at all points in large numbers. Officials state that the number of men required will be secured in a very short time.
This will be due partly to the circumstances that thousands who volunteered when the first overseas contingent was raised, and who were not accepted are eager to go to the front.

Owing to the decision to place the details of the work on the shoulders of the officers commanding the various military districts there will be considerably less strain upon the headquarters staff at Ottawa than there was in connection with the organization of the first contingent. When that work was under way everybody from the minister of militia down was worried with individual applications for enlistment and other small matters of detail of which they are now relieved by the staffs at divisional headquarters.

The new plan is expected to work with much less friction and to bring about more satisfactory results. It is explained that the selection of the officers provisionally will be made by district officers commanding, but that these selections will later on have to be confirmed.

Officials of the militia department are not surprised at the cable reports telling of the time it has taken to transport the troops from Plymouth to Salisbury Plains. They say it emphasizes the difficulties experienced in connection with the work, and makes it clear that Canada's record in connection with the handling of so large a body of troops was not a bad one.

BLONDIN AND CASGRAIN NEW CABINET MINISTERS

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Hon. T. C. Casgrain was sworn in as postmaster-general in place of Hon. L. P. Pelletier today, and Deputy-Speaker H. E.
Blondin as minister of inland revenue,
replacing Hon. W. B. Nantel. Mr.
Blondin is famous chiefly for his Nationalist speech in the last election, saying, "In order to breathe air of freedom we had to shoot holes in the Union Jack."

Owing to the disgust over the cabinet change fiasco, Bob Rogers left last night for Winnipeg, and other ministers threaten to resign.

The inclusion of Mr. Blondin in the cabinet came as a surprise, as E. L.
Patenau, M.L.A., Montreal, was expected to succeed Mr. Nantel. It is explained that Mr. Blondin's appointment is due to geographical conditions, it being impossible to appoint Mr. Paten-au as there are too many ministers from the Montreal district.

It is expected that Mr. Casgrain will contest Quebec county, the seat held by Mr. Pelletier, while Mr. Blondin will seek re-election in Champlain county.

C. P. R. EMPLOYEES GIVE $140,316.71 TO FUND

berta, $18,000; Saskatchewan, $15,000;
Manitoba, $25,000; Ontario, $25,000; Quebec, $28,000; New Brunswick, $5,316.71.
Total, $140,316.71. The Canadian Pacific Railway contribution, with other smaller contributions acknowledged today, brings the general fund up to $142,742.

JAPANESE OCCUPYING ISLANDS IN PACIFIC

Landings Made on Marianne,
Marshall, East and West
Caroline Groups

ACTION IS TAKEN FOR MILITARY PURPOSES

German Possessions Acquired to Prevent Assistance Being Given Enemy's Ships

Tokio, Oct. 20.—The navy department has announced the occupation, for military purposes, of strategically important islands in the Marianne (or Ladrone) Marshall, East Caroline and West Caroline archipelagoes.

Jaluit, in the Marshall group, was occupied October 14 by a division of the Japanese fleet. Jaluit, it is explained, was the base of the enemy's maritime operations in the Marianne, Marshall and Eastern and Western Caroline archipelagoes. The Japanese found two German vessels there. One sent herself to the bottom and the other was captured with her crew. No damage was sustained by the Japanese fleet.

Previous announcement has been made of the occupation by Japan of these islands in the Marshall and Caroline groups. The occupation of an island in the Marianne and Ladrone group has not heretofore been reported.

The Marianne islands lie directly east of Luzon and about 1,700 miles from Manila. In this group is the island of Guam, which was acquired by the United States in 1898. Here the United States maintains a small military force and there is a cable station on the line between Manila, Honolulu and San Francisco. The Marianne group is about 500 miles south of the Bonin islands, which belong to Japan. The total area of the Marianes is about 420 square miles. Most of them are densely wooded and all are described as fertile. The climate is temperate and salubrious.

With the exception of Guam, all the islands in the group were sold by Spain to Germany in 1899, and form part of a government district of German New Guinea.

It was announced from Tokio October 6 that the Japanese squadron sent to destroy the German fleet in the South Seas had landed blue-jackets at Jaluit island, the seat of government in the Marshall archipelago, annexed by Germany in 1898. The Marshalls are in the South Pacific about midway between the Philippines and Hawaii. Jaluit is given as thirty-eight miles long and twenty-two wide. It has the headquarters of a German company which traded with the Marshall and adjacent groups of islands.

Zeppelin Airship Shed Damaged by Bombs of British Army Aeroplanes at Dusseldorf

FIRING INCESSANT ALONG RIVER MEUSE

French Artillery Taking Most Important Part; Destroys
German Battery

Britishers at Front When Off Duty Always Ready to Play Games

On the battlefield, via Paris, Oct.
20.—On the eastern wing, along the Meuse, heavy fighting is incessant and in this the French artillery is playing a most important part. The concentrated fire of several French batteries at St. Mihiel on Monday destroyed a complete battery of heavy German artillery which had been causing great annoyance.

It was due to the clever work of a French artilleryman that this was accomplished. Carrying a portable field telephone he hid himself for two days near the German position and informed his comrades in his rear of the positions of the German guns and the direction in which they should fire.

This information rendered the German position untenable and when his work was done, the brave gunner returned safely to the French lines. The scenes behind the battle lines denote the characteristics of the various nations engaged.

The French soldiers are very gay, singing when they return from the trenches and always seeking to learn all the news from any new arrival from the rear.

The Belgians are somewhat the same in character, but the recent damage to so many cities of Belgium has made them gloomy. They are still full of fight and sure of eventual victory.

The British appear to be ready to seize the slightest opportunity to play some game when off duty. They are always cleanly shaven and love to plunge into a creek or river. Behind their trenches are many kneading troughs captured from the Germans' commissary division and now turned into tubs.

The Indian troops maintain calm silence except when in action. Then they utter wild cries in their eastern languages as they enter the fighting.

The Moroccan auxiliaries, known as Goumiers, maintain all their African habits. They apparently are always ready to rest anywhere that they may find themselves, but sleep with the bridle over their arm and spring into action at the slightest movement or noise.

Belgian Army Holds River Yser Against Violent German Attack

Paris, Oct. 20.—The French official communication given out this afternoon says that the Belgian army is holding its position on the river Yser.

The official communication follows: "In Belgium, in spite of violent attacks on the part of the enemy, the Belgium army has held its position on the line of the river Yser."

"There have been other actions in the regions of Ypres, between the allied forces operating in this territory and the forces of the enemy."

"On our left wing, the Germans continue to hold strongly their positions around Lille in the direction of Armentieres, Fournes and Labasse.

"On the Meuse the enemy has endeavored in vain to drive back the advance posts of our troops who have moved out along the right bank of this stream in the peninsula of the Camp des Rom-aines."

"To sum up, during the day of October 19, we have made progress at various points on the front."

"In East Prussia and on the Vistula river there is no change in the situation. The efforts of the Austrians to cross the river San have been repulsed. The battle south of Epemysl is continuing under conditions favorable to the Russians."

INSPECTORS WILL PASS UPON GOODS BOUGHT IN CANADA

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The British government is sending nine inspectors to Canada to inspect all purchases made in this country by Frederick Stobart for the British government before these goods are accepted. Several of the inspectors will make their headquarters in Montreal. The rest will go to Winnipeg.

Recruiting for the 16,000 infantry for the second contingent is proceeding satisfactorily according to advices received at military headquarters. It is expected that the number required will have volunteered in very short time.

CARUSO SINGS IN ROME FOR NEEDY EMIGRANTS

Rome, Oct. 19.—An extraordinary performance was given at the Costanzi needy emigrants who have returned to Italy. It yielded more than 100,000 lire (about $20,000.) Among the singers who appeared was Enrico Caruso, not previously heard in Rome since 1903.

WHERE RUSSIA STANDS IN WAR WITH GERMANY

Foreign Minister Outlines Position in Regard to Reactionary Party

Petrograd, Oct. 19.—Attempts by the Russian reactionary party to create discord within the empire and awaken anti-British sentiment resulted in a statement to-day by M. Sazonoff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, in which he defined his country's attitude toward the allies and her stand against Germany.

Recent avowals by this element as reflected in a few reactionary journals,
M. Sazonoff declared, went so far as to compliment Emperor William and laud the Hohenzollern family. They alluded exultingly, he said, to the fall of Antwerp as the approaching end of the war, adversely criticized Great Britain by stating that she was getting other countries to fight her battles, and also plainly forecasted an Anglo-Russian rupture.

"This small German element," said
M. Sazonoff, "is wholly unrepresentative of Russia and negligible as far as Russian policy is concerned. Their ideas date back as far as 1815. Totally ignorant of foreign policies, they still are under the sentiment of a century ago and are maliciously but vainly attempting to sow discord between the allies by insinuations against Britain."

"Once for all, the world ought to be warned against taking seriously the efforts of this ill-advised minority or allowing this small element to spread abroad their attempts to shake the good faith between Britain and Russia."

"I want to say most emphatically that there will be no rupture between Great Britain and Russia and that there is no possibility of a premature settlement with Germany contrary to our agreement with our allies. It is preposterous to think that this element in Russia is going to have a hand in dictating Russia's policy during the war. The attempts of the press to poison or prevent feeling all over the world has failed, at least in Russia."

PARTIAL SUCCESSES IN WARSAW FIGHTING

Petrograd, Oct. 19.—The Russian general staff to-day made this announcement: "We report partial successes on October 18 in very fierce fighting in the region of Warsaw and north of Przemysl."

OFFENSIVE OF ALLIES CONTINUES IN FRANCE AND AT COAST TOWNS

Increasing Satisfaction in Paris at Tide of Battle—Squadron of Warships Reported to Have Taken Part in Battle in Belgium

In Alsace France Has Established Herself
Firmly—Germans Are Raising Defenses
Around Strassburg; Expecting Attack

London, Oct. 20.—The allies have recaptured Ostend, according to the Morning Post correspondent in the north of France, who says he was given this information on excellent authority.

A new element was introduced into the conflict on the coast when the British fleet made its presence known by a brisk cannonade of massed German columns who were trying to break down the allies' resistance.

Paris, Oct. 20.—Increasing satisfaction was shown in Paris today on reading the latest reports from the front. These indicate that the allies are continuing their offensive operations, which, in the opinion of French observers, promise the best results. The action of the Belgian army and of a squadron of warships in repulsing an attack by the enemy is a subject of particularly favorable comment.

Situation in Alsace Favors French.

The public was equally gratified by the announcement of the situation in Alsace. This was the first time in some days that the war office has indicated definitely the French positions.

It is now seen that the French troops have almost reached the outlet of the valley leading to the plains of the river Ill, which flows north through Alsace and empties into the Rhine.

The French now consider that they are firmly established in Alsace on territory doubly dear to them. Word has been received also that the Germans are hastily preparing new defensive works around Strassburg and digging innumerable trenches in front of this city. Vineyards have been levelled by the German engineers in carry-

London, Oct. 20.—The plunging German tactics on the allied line near the Belgian coast between Nieupoort and Dixmude; similar tactics by the allies in France between Arras and Roye, where progress is claimed; a continued allied assault on Lille still held by the Germans, and stubborn fighting in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, where for days the allies have been attempting to drive the Germans from their southern most lodgment, were the acute points to-day in the battle areas of France and Belgium.

The communications issued in behalf of the allies last night enabled Britons to visualize for the first time in ten days the approximate battle-line after crossing the Belgian frontier, and showed how the allies during the days of censorship were throwing their forces westward to meet the inevitable German advance which followed the taking of Ostend.

The fighting is now centering only a few miles southwest of that city and the Belgian army, heretofore reported as having repulsed the Germans on the banks of the Yser, is again in the thick of the fighting, being credited with bending back the German line as far as Roulers, Belgium, thirteen miles northwest of Courtrai, which point they

GERMANY HAS ANOTHER EXCUSE NOW FOR WAR

Must Not Let Russia Be World's Dictator, Says Berliner Tageblatt.

Amsterdam, Oct. 20.—The Berliner Tageblatt in an editorial, appears to renounce the view recently prevalent in Germany that the destruction of Great Britain is the main object of the present war.

"Because Russia threatened us," it says, "and because its perpetual menace is intolerable the German people went to war. Until we finish we must not forget for a moment why we began."
"Every loss of power by Britain means for Russia a further gain of strength, influence and freedom of movement. We all hope that Britain's position as the world's dictator will be shaken, but it is tenfold our duty to fight against Russia becoming the world's dictator."

TRAINS CARRYING TROOPS AND REFUGEES COLLIDED

London, Oct. 20.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Pas de Calais, dated Monday, says that between forty and fifty passengers were killed and eighty were injured in a train wreck Saturday at Marquise, between Calais and Boulogne. Two trains, carrying soldiers and refugees collided owing to the fact that a broken signal wire released the danger signal. Many carriages were wrecked.

TRAINS RUNNING FROM ANTWERP TO BRUSSELS

London, Oct. 20.—Railway communication between Antwerp and Brussels and from Bergen Op Zoon to Antwerp has been restored, says an Amsterdam correspondent's dispatch to Reuters.
Nine thousand refugees returned from Rosendaal to Antwerp yesterday.

CANADIAN TROOPS ARE SETTLING INTO CAMPS

Men Amuse Themselves Playing Football and Baseball on Salisbury Plains

Salisbury Plain, Eng., Oct. 20, via London.—Except for a few detachments working with the supply and horse transport trains, all the Canadians have arrived at their camps scattered over Salisbury Plain. The early arrivals, who have completed their camp-making, amused themselves yesterday by playing baseball and football. Among the players there appeared a surprising number of sweaters bearing the winged foot emblem of the New York Athletic club. One of these sweater wearers said that patriotic Britons residing in New York had equipped and sent to Canada more than 2,000 recruits, who are now with the Canadian contingent.

A general air of cheerfulness prevails among the Canadians, but some grumbling is heard because of the isolation of the various camps. None of them is within four miles of even a village, and seven miles separates the nearest of them from any considerable town.

The prohibition rule imposed on the Valcartier camp in Canada by the Canadian minister of militia, rules here, and is being rigidly enforced.

The slowness of the Canadians in reaching camp has caused a postponement of any attempt of a review of the troops, and it is expected that General Alderson will take command without the usual ceremony.

London, Oct. 20.—Two deaths are reported in the Canadian contingent. Private W. H. Harley, C Company, 14th Battalion, Montreal, died suddenly yesterday during the journey to Salisbury, his death being probably due to heart failure, while Private James Nichols, a reservist of the West Yorkshire Regiment, travelling home with the contingent aboard the Ivernia, died on the 14th, his death being due to natural causes.

Hon. Colonel Sam Hughes visited the camp Sunday.

General Alderson, appointed by the war office to command the Canadian contingent, took up his quarters yesterday.

The weather continues perfect, everyone being in the best of spirits.

The first Canadian newspapers since September 9 reached here yesterday, the newspaper mail being held up owing to military necessity.

IRISHMEN TAKE PLEDGE FOR FIGHT TO FINISH

Confidence Expressed in John Rodmond's Leadership; Belgium Must Be Free.

London, Oct. 20.—Amid tumultuous cheers, with right hands upraised, Irish Nationalists who crowded Central hall last night adopted a pledge administered by T. P. O'Connor:

"We will never sheath the sword until Belgium has got back her freedom; until every inch of her soil is clear; until a treaty is made, not on a scrap of paper, but on a foundation behind which stand the millions of the British race."

The meeting was called for the purpose of expressing in the leadership of John Rodmond, and to endorse the action of the Irish party in supporting "the war of the allies against Prussian militarism."

Mr. O'Connor said that for this fundamental and supreme principle the British fought on hundreds of battlefields. What they had claimed and won for themselves, they also claimed for other countries and would help other countries win.

In scathing terms he denounced Germany, and declared that German militarism must be crushed. There was not an Irishman, he said, whose heart did not bleed for the sufferings of Belgians and would not do all in his power to end them.

MUST NOT INSURE ANY AUSTRIANS OR GERMANS

Amendments to Law Regarding Trading With the Enemy Are to Be Published.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—Amendments to the two royal proclamations issued respecting trading with the enemy have been made and are published this week by the government. They relate chiefly to the making of insurance or re-insurance contracts with the enemy or for his benefit.

It is forbidden to make or enter into marine, life or other policy or contract of insurance or re-insurance, with or for the benefit of an enemy; to accept from or give effect to any insurance or any risk arising under any policy entered into for the benefit of an enemy before the outbreak of war, and in particular re-insurance contracts of re-insurance current at the outbreak of war in which the enemy is interested; to cede or to accept from him any risk arising from the policy of insurance entered into after the outbreak of war.

When the enemy has a branch locally situated in British, allied or neutral territory carrying on an insurance or re-insurance business, transactions of such branch will be considered transactions with the enemy.

AUSTRIAN FLEET HELD IN HARBOR AT CATTARO

London, Oct. 19.—An attempt of the Austrian fleet to break through the line of French warships blocking the harbor of Cattaro, Dalmatia, Sunday, was defeated, according to a dispatch from Cetina, Montenegro. The Austrians, it is said, were driven back into the harbor.

BATTLE OF THE RIVERS IS GRAPHICALLY TOLD BY GENERAL FRENCH IN REPORT

British Commander Gives Details of the Weeks of Fighting Since the Germans' Advance Towards Paris Was Checked

London, Oct. 20.—In two long reports Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, recounts with considerable detail the fighting in which the British expeditionary force was engaged during the month from Mons southward to the Seine and the advance, after a most vigorous offensive on the part of the allies, back to the River Aisne and the first stage of the desperate encounters along the line of that river, which included the crossing of the stream in the face of the determined opposition of the Germans.

When the Germans Turned. The first report discloses that it was September 6 that the allies took the offensive which checked the German general von Kluck's advance to the southeast of Paris and that it required four days to compel the Germans to turn their backs on the French capital. Two days later the Germans, according to the report, were back across the Aisne, having lost heavily in men, guns and transport in their retreat. Then commenced the battle of the Aisne, which lasted for a month, and the phases of which are dealt with.

In the second report, which is dated October 18, Gen. French refers to the attacks and counter attacks, which were still going on when the report was concluded September 28.

The Second Report. The second report concerning the operations of the British forces since the evening of September 10 is as follows:

"Early in the morning of the 11th three corps crossed the Ourcq—further pursuit of the enemy being practically unopposed—the cavalry reaching the line of the Aisne, two brigades south of Soissons and three brigades at Couvres and Cernuill, on the afternoon of September 12.

Retreat Is Stopped. "From the opposition encountered by the Sixth French army to the west of Soissons and two of our army corps south of Missy, and certain other indications along the line, I formed the opinion that the enemy had, for the moment at any rate, arrested his retreat and was preparing to contest the passage of the Aisne with some vigor south of Soissons, where the Germans were holding Mont de Paris against attack. With the assistance of artillery the third corps of the French drove them back across the river at Soissons, where they destroyed the bridge. Heavy artillery fire showed that the Sixth French army was meeting with heavy opposition all along the line.

"On this day the cavalry under Gen. Allenby reached the neighborhood of Braine and did good work in clearing the town and the high ground beyond it of strong hostile detachments.

Queen's Bays Mentioned. "The Queen's Bays are particularly mentioned by the general as having assisted greatly in the success of this operation. They were well supported by the third division, while on this night bivouacked at Brenelle, south of the river.

"The fifth division approached Missy, the report continues, 'but were unable to make headway. The west army corps reached the neighborhood of Vauxeux without much opposition. In this manner the battle of the Aisne commenced.

"The position of the enemy was very strong, either for delaying action or for a defensive battle. On the chief military characteristics is that, except for small stretches on the top of the plateau, either side cannot be seen, owing to the woods on the edges of the slopes. The tract of the country above described is well adapted for concealment.

Enemy Was Skilful. "The enemy so skilfully turned this to account that it made it impossible to judge the real nature of his opposition to our passage of the river, but I have every reason to conclude that strong rear guards, at least three army corps, were holding the passages early in the morning."

Troops Ordered Forward. "On that morning I ordered the British forces forward. The First corps and cavalry advanced on the right. The First division was directed to move, via the canal bridge, at P. On the right the cavalry and First division met with little opposition, and found passage by means of the canal aqueduct. This division, therefore, was able to press on, supported by the cavalry, on the outer flank, driving the enemy before it.

"By nightfall the First division occupied the area around Moulins, Paisey and Gony. The Second division bivouacked on the southern bank of the river, leaving only the Fifth brigade on the north bank to establish a bridge head. The Second corps found all the bridges destroyed except that at Conde, which was in possession of the enemy, and remained so until the end of the battle.

Halted by Artillery. "In the approach to Missy, where the Fifth division, eventually crossed, there is some open ground, which was swept by artillery fire from the opposite bank. The First division, therefore, was unable to advance, but the Fourteenth, directed to a less exposed point, was rafted over, and at night established itself on the left of St. Marguerite, where later, with the Fifth brigade, supported by the Fourth division on their left, it succeeded in repelling heavy counter attacks on the Third corps.

"On the morning of the 13th the Third corps found the enemy established in strength on Vregny plateau. The Twelfth infantry crossed at Venizel, but the bridge was so damaged that the artillery could only be man-handled across it. Meanwhile, the construction of a bridge began close to the road bridge at Venizel.

Bridge Attempt Fails. "At 2 p. m. an infantry attack in the direction of Chivres and Vregny had made good progress, but at 3.30 p. m. the enemy's artillery and machine gun fire from the direction of Vregny became so severe that no further progress could be made. The position reached was held until dark. The Third corps made an attempt to throw a heavy pontoon across the river late in the afternoon, but gave up because of the heavy howitzer fire of the enemy.

"In the evening the enemy retired at all points, and entrenched himself on high ground, about two miles north of the river, along which runs the Chemin des Dames. Detachments of infantry, however, strongly entrenched in commanding positions down the slopes and on various spurs were left in front of all three army corps, with powerful artillery in support of them.

Advance Ordered. "With a view to clearing the situation I ordered a general advance. The action of the First corps on this day, under the direction and command of Sir Douglas Haig, was of so skilful, bold and decisive a character that he gained positions which alone would have enabled me to maintain my position after more than three weeks of very severe fighting on the north bank of the river.

Enemy Driven Back. "About 1 p. m. the enemy obtained a footing between the First and Second corps and threatened to cut the communications of the latter. Gen. Haig was hard pressed and had no reserve in hand. I placed a cavalry division at his disposal, part of which he skilfully used to prolong the left flank of the Guards' brigade. Some heavy fighting ensued, which resulted in the enemy being driven back with heavy loss.

"About 4 o'clock a weakening of the counter attacks by the enemy and the indications tended to show that his resistance was decreasing, and a general advance was ordered by the army corps commander.

Position Is Maintained. "Throughout the battle of the Aisne this advanced and commanding position was maintained, and I cannot speak too highly of the valuable services rendered by Sir Douglas Haig and the army corps under his command. Day after day, night after night, the enemy's infantry has been hurled against him in a violent counter attack, which has never on any one occasion succeeded, while the trenches all over his position have been under continuous and heavy artillery fire.

"The operation of the First corps on this day resulted in the capture of several hundred prisoners and some field pieces and machine guns. The casualties were very severe, one brigade alone losing three of its four colonels.

British Driven Back. "The Third division commenced a further advance and had nearly reached the plateau of Aizy when they were driven back by a powerful counter attack, supported by heavy artillery. The division, however, fell back in the best order, and finally entrenched itself about a mile north of Vailly bridge, effectively covering its passage.

"On the morning of the 15th, after a close examination, I became convinced that the enemy was making a determined stand. This was confirmed by reports reaching me from the French armies operating on my right and left, which clearly indicated that the enemy was occupying a strongly entrenched line along the whole valley of the Aisne.

Eight-Inch Shells. "During the day, shells, judged by experts to be from eight-inch guns, fell on our position. These had a range of 10,000 yards and during the course of the battle our troops suffered heavily from this fire, although latterly its effects have been largely mitigated by more efficient and thorough entrenching.

"As the enemy was able to bring a flank fire on it, the Fifth division was unable to maintain its position and had to retire back to the river east of Missy, where with great skill and tenacity Major-General Sir Charles Ferguson maintained his position throughout the whole battle, although his trenches were on lower ground than those of the enemy, on a plateau only 400 yards away.

"Gen. Hamilton, with the Third division, attacked vigorously and regained the ground lost on the 14th.

"On the 17th, 18th and 19th the whole of our line was heavily bombarded. The First corps was heavily and constantly engaged. On the afternoon of the 17th the right flank of the First division was seriously threatened. The enemy's attack was ultimately driven back with heavy losses.

Joffre Changes Plan. "On the 18th information reached me that Gen. Joffre had found it necessary to make a new plan and to attack and envelop the German right flank. It was evident to me that the battle in which we had been engaged since the 12th must last some days longer, until the flank movement could be felt and the way opened to drive the enemy from his positions.

"Thus it became essential to establish some system of relief in the trenches and I have used the infantry of the Sixth division with good results for this purpose.

"On the evening of the 19th the enemy began to show activity. After dark the enemy continued his attack on the Second division, only to be again driven back. Our losses in these days were considerable, but the enemy's, as obtained, vastly exceeded them.

Counter Attack Repulsed. "On the night of the 21st another violent counter attack was repulsed by the Third division, the enemy losing heavily. On the 23rd four six-inch howitzer batteries, which I had asked to be sent from home, arrived. Two batteries were handed over to the Second corps and two to the First corps. They were brought into action on the 24th with very good results.

Sapping Toward Line. "On the 23rd the action of Gen. De Castelnau's army on the allied left developed considerably and apparently withdrew considerable forces of the enemy from the centre and the east. I am not aware whether it was due to this cause or not, but until the 26th it appeared as though the enemy's position in our front was weakening. On that day, however, a very marked renewal of activity commenced. A constant and vigorous artillery bombardment was maintained all day and the Germans in front of the First division were observed to be sapping up to our lines and trying to establish new trenches.

Renewed counter attacks were delivered and beaten off during the course of the day and in the afternoon a well-timed attack by the First division stopped the enemy's entrenching work.

Made Last Great Effort. "During the night of the 27th and 28th the enemy again made the most determined attempts to capture the trenches of the first division, but without the slightest success. Similar attacks were repeated during these days all along the lines of the allied front and it is certain that the enemy then made one last great effort to establish ascendancy. He, however, was unsuccessful everywhere, and is reported to have suffered heavy losses.

"During the same time futile attempts were made all along our front up to the evening of the 28th when they died away and have not since been renewed.

"The fact that between the 12th of September and the date of this dispatch (October 8) the total number of killed, wounded and missing reached the figure of 561 officers and 12,989 men proves the severity of the struggle.

"The tax on the endurance of the troops was further increased by the heavy rain and cold which prevailed for some ten or twelve days on this trying time.

"The battle of the Aisne has once more demonstrated the splendid spirit, gallantry and devotion which animates the officers and men of his majesty's forces."

ITALY MOBILIZES FLEET OF ABOUT TWENTY SHIPS

Duke d' Abruzzi is Commander-in-Chief; Regina Margherita is Flagship.

New York, Oct. 19.—A special cable to the Tribune from Rome says: "An Italian fleet has now been completely mobilized, under the Duke d' Abruzzi, its commander-in-chief. The composition of the fleet is as follows:

"First division, three dreadnoughts; second, four battleships; third, four first-class cruisers; fourth, three second-class cruisers; fifth, four training ships; sixth, four older warships; seventh, torpedo-boats. Submarines and a scout destroyer flotilla are attached to each division, which is commanded by a rear-admiral. "The flagship Regina Margherita is the duke's flagship."

GERMAN VESSEL FITTED AS HOSPITAL IS FOUND

London, Oct. 19.—The German steamer Ophelia, from Hamburg, was brought into Yarmouth Roads to-day by a British cruiser from the North Sea. She was flying a Red Cross flag, and was found to have a wireless installation, which was dismantled. The vessel was fitted with 100 beds and the complete equipment of a floating hospital. The German flag has been kept flying from her stern, and it is said she will not be detained long.

This would seem to dispose of the report current earlier in the day that a German vessel had been sunk because she was engaged in mine laying.

YOUNG AND AGED WOMEN RETURNING TO FRANCE

London, Oct. 20.—A dispatch to Reuters from Berlin via Amsterdam says that Frenchmen and Frenchwomen under 17 and over 60 years, will henceforth be allowed to depart from Germany by the regular trains via Schaffhausen, Switzerland. The German authorities will facilitate their departure as much as possible and a bureau established in Berne will assist them in passing through Switzerland. The measure is reciprocal in nature and meant to meet a similar departure of Germans in France.

TWO BATTALIONS ARE WANTED IN PROVINCE

Eleven Hundred Soldiers From British Columbia for Second Canadian Contingent

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—In accordance with Sir Robert Borden's statement, the following details of the apportioned quotas of infantry by divisions and districts and provinces have been furnished by the acting minister of militia, Hon. J. D. Hazen:

Divisional Areas.—First, Southern Ontario, one battalion. Second, Western Ontario, two battalions. Third, Eastern Ontario, one battalion. Fourth, Southern Quebec, two battalions. Fifth, Northern Quebec, one battalion. Sixth, Maritime Provinces, two battalions.

The Quebec quota includes the French-Canadian battalion already authorized.

No. 10.—Manitoba and Saskatchewan, two battalions. No. 11.—British Columbia, two battalions. No. 13.—Alberta, one battalion.

Total battalions, 14, with 16,000 men. Each military division and each province is to furnish its quota as given above. Divisional headquarters are to be at London, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria. While New Brunswick is not the headquarters of a division, recruiting will also be carried on there, probably at St. John.

In its analysis, the plan means that less than a year 100,000 Canadians will be under arms, and that they will be sent across the Atlantic constantly but gradually. The installments will number 10,000 each. It will be observed that this is somewhat of a change from the recently announced plan of dispatching the second contingent of 22,000. It is estimated that by the first of the year there will be 50,000 men on the payroll of the Canadian army, and that the daily war bill of the Dominion, which is now about $50,000 a day, will be more than $100,000 a day.

There are now 23,000 Canadians in England, 1,000 at Bermuda, 8,000 on guard in Canada, the complements of the Niobe, Rainbow, Canada and two submarines, and 30,000 to be raised. The lowest pay is $1.10 a day, the rate of privates. Colonels get $6.50 per day.

It is estimated that the equipment of each soldier, from bayonet to boots, with summer and winter kit, costs $390. The force which has left has cost $10,000,000.

The $50,000,000 which was voted by the extra session in August is becoming exhausted. There is not enough of it left to finance the raising and equipping of the second expeditionary force. When parliament meets there will be a vote of at least $50,000,000 more asked for the war budget and probably there will be further war taxation imposed.

60 CENTIMETRE GUNS BUILDING AT KRUPP'S

Great Cannon Intended for Arm'g Naval Base When One is Acquired

The Hague, Oct. 19.—To the rumors that the Krupp works at Essen are building 56-centimetre guns has now been added another—the claim that the same plant is turning out 60-centimetre pieces. While it is hard to believe this, it must be borne in mind that a siege piece of 42-centimetres, the existence of which was doubted before the war, has become a convincing reality.

Since the increase in weight of a 56-centimetre, or 22-inch gun, over a 42-centimetre, or 16.5-inch gun, is not very great, and since the increase in a 60-centimetre, or 23.5-inch, gun over a 22-inch gun would be an almost negligible quantity, the existence of such pieces need not be doubted. If it is possible to move over ordinary roads and across fields a 26-ton piece, it is not unreasonable to expect that a gun weighing 35 tons would offer no transportation problems. The case is one of increased motive power instead of new aspects in transportation.

No attention need be paid to rumors making the rounds in Germany that the new pieces are designed to bombard the English coast from the coast of France. The extreme flight of the 16-inch shell has recently been given as about 12 kilometres for the "Krummbahn," or high trajectory pieces, and 16 kilometres for those having a flatter course. Since the increase in calibre from 16½ to 23½ does not necessarily mean a proportionate lengthening of range, it is not at all likely that the English coast cities opposite Calais and other channel ports will make the acquaintance of the "brummers," as the Germans have come to call their large siege pieces.

The 56 and 60-centimetre pieces, should they actually exist, would be used for arm'g some naval base on the channel which the Germans hope to establish during the course of the war. It is maintained that Calais has been decided upon as the best locality for such a base, and the great activity in the Krupp works is in a measure due to this.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY FIGHT ON BLACK SEA

WHAT GERMANY WANTS IN REGARD TO FRANCE

Kaiser Would Demolish Republic, Buy Russia and Ex-terminate Great Britain

Paris, Oct. 20.—Georges Clemenceau published a letter which he says he received from an American diplomat relating to a conversation with Ambassador Bernstorff had with a German-American banker at Newport. The banker handed the ambassador a check for the German Red Cross and then asked, "What does the Kaiser expect to get from France if he wins?" Ambassador Bernstorff, according to this letter, replied:

"These are the German commandments regarding France. We shall demand:

"1. All the French colonies, including Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia.

"2. French territory from Sain Valery to Lyons, or one-quarter of France, with 15,000,000 inhabitants.

"3. An indemnity of two billion dollars.

"4. A commercial treaty enabling German goods to enter France free of duty for 25 years without reciprocity and then a resumption of the terms of the Frankfurt treaty.

"5. The suppression of recruiting in France for 25 years.

"6. The demolition of all French fortresses.

"7. France to surrender 3,000,000 rifles, 3,000 guns and 40,000 horses.

"8. Free patent rights without reciprocity for 25 years.

"9. France to abandon diplomatic relations with Britain and Russia.

"10. A treaty of alliance with Germany for 25 years."

Regarding Russia, Ambassador Bernstorff added, according to this letter: "We shall buy her and then exterminate Britain. The latter will attack Russia for treachery and both will call on us for help. Above all we must crush France and reduce her to the condition of Turkey or Portugal, even if it is necessary to kill 5,000,000 Frenchmen."

THE WAR.

A correspondent of the London Morning Post in a dispatch sent from the north of France declares that Ostend has been recaptured by the allies. This is not confirmed by the French communiqué, which states that the Belgians continue to hold their position on the river Yser, ten miles southwest of Ostend. The same bulletin says the allies are maintaining their advanced positions around Lille in the face of strong opposition, although the correspondents of London newspapers state that Lille has been recaptured by the allies.

The conflict between the versions of the correspondents and the official bulletins is more apparent than real. In the first place the information contained in the French announcements is several days old before it is given out. It is admitted, however, that the British navy took part in the battle along the Yser, cross firing upon the Germans advancing along the coast line. The effect of this, in conjunction with frontal attacks by the allies on land, would be to drive the enemy away from the coast, opening the way for the recapture of Ostend by either the land forces or by the navy.

The British announcement that the allies have thrown back the Germans thirty miles may be accepted as correct, but whether this refers to an advance as far as Ostend or the occupation of Roulers is not clear. It is definitely known, however, that the allies hold a line from Nieuport southwest of Ostend, through Dixmude to Roulers, giving them the southwest region of Belgium. Germany is hurrying up reserves in a frantic effort to bend back that line, for it is her only chance of snatching success from unfavorable prospects. These men, described as being of all ages, have been taken from Brussels and other Belgian camps and represent a forlorn hope. Failure must mean German evacuation of the west of Belgium and of all France, an operation which cannot be carried out now except with enormous difficulty.

The French have taken advantage of the transfer of large detachments elsewhere to establish themselves securely in Alsace and feverish preparation for the defence of Strassburg by the Germans is reported. The substantial weakening of the German line anywhere between Belgium and Alsace would be the signal for a dash upon the Rhine from Alsace as well as upon the line between Verdun and Metz. The allies' operations on their right flank are secondary only in importance to the movement in Belgium. In fact, in French eyes they probably take first place, aside from the necessity of keeping closed a possible avenue for another German march to Paris from the north.

In the east, in spite of divergent reports from the various capitals, every indication points to the failure of the German attack upon the line of the Vistula from Warsaw southeasterly and the inability of the Austrians to make headway in Galicia. The invaders admit that the conditions of the country are unfavorable for effective operations, thereby conceding the Petrograd claim that they have been thrown back some twenty-five miles from Warsaw. If the Russian army is as large as a report from Rome says it is, that is, three million men, a strong Muscovite offensive may be anticipated before very long. The fact that these operations in the east are being carried on mainly in Russian territory is not at all an unfavorable sign. On the contrary it shows that Russia has manoeuvred the Germans into fighting upon ground and under conditions most advantageous to her, a retreat from which would involve serious consequences to the German army. It may not be necessary for the Russians to fight a prolonged battle on the German frontier before they advance on Silesia. The door to Berlin may be kicked open from the Vistula.

NATIONALIST MINISTERS.

The Hon. T. Chasé Casgrain has been sworn in as a member of the Canadian cabinet in place of the Hon. L. P. Pelletier, and it is reported that the Hon. Bruno Nantel and Hon. Louis Coderre also are about to retire.

The reason for Mr. Pelletier's resignation is officially stated to be ill-health. It is unlikely that Messrs. Nantel and Coderre, who also are Nationalists, would be actuated by similar considerations. The coincidence would be altogether too far-fetched. If they do retire, however, it is to be hoped that the country will receive a full and frank explanation of the cause of their action. Mr. Nantel is said to be slated for the railway commission, one of the highest and most remunerative positions in the gift of the Canadian people. Messrs. Coderre and Pelletier also are reported to be line for public offices. If the Nationalist members of the cabinet are retiring because of their opposition to the policy of sending Canadian troops abroad they should not receive any positions from the Canadian government, but should be relegated to the relative seclusion of private life.

DEMOCRACY WILL GAIN.

Democracy all over the world will be a gainer from the war. Two dynasties which represent the very antithesis of the constitutional progress of the people are doomed to lie on the scrapheap. The accursed doctrine expressed by Treitschke, which went out of fashion in Great Britain centuries ago, will be uprooted from the soil in which it has been entrenched. Whenever the champions of caste and special privilege anywhere attempt to burk movements of democratic advancement the public will recall the terrible sacrifice involved in the destruction of the cult on the continent of Europe and will come down upon them with irresistible force. Russia, curiously enough, finds herself aligned with the most advanced democratic nations of the world in opposition to the forces of oppression.

She will learn much from her association, but there still exists in the land of the Czar a reactionary element which has taken its inspiration from Potsdam. If after this struggle over this element attempts to control the policy of the empire the people whose eyes have been opened as they never were opened before will take it by the throat and strangle it. Absolutism is making its last stand in Belgium and Russian Poland.

HER MAXIMUM.

A contemporary points out that while Germany may have ten million men liable for service in the war she cannot maintain more than four million in the field. This is quite true. In fact, she cannot keep even that number in the actual fighting line except for a very short period. For every man in the trenches at least three are required for auxiliary services, without which he can neither shoot nor fight. Immediately tributary to the battlefield are those engaged in the transport branch and in protecting lines of communication and supply depots and in numerous activities other than the actual fighting. In order to invade France with a million men Germany had to mobilize more than two million soldiers, besides reserves. All told there must be nearly three million men connected with the campaign in the west and not more than half of them, at the outside, are engaged directly with the enemy.

On the eastern front Germany is said to have another million and a half. This likewise means the mobilization of something like three million men. Were she to reinforce both armies she would have to add proportionately to the auxiliary services behind them. The maintenance of an army of three million men in the battle-front, therefore, makes a big hole in the number of eligibles for military service. Even to do this she has to denude some of her fortresses, but there are some districts which cannot be deprived of troops. The Baltic provinces, cities like Berlin, Breslau and Düsseldorf, the Holland frontier and Schleswig-Holstein, and the Rhine, cannot be left unguarded.

But there are other services that must be maintained or the entire German structure will collapse. These include the operations of mines, some of which furnish the Krupp with the materials which keep their furnaces going. The shipbuilding yards employ more men than in time of peace, and numerous other establishments engaged in the manufacture of army supplies must be kept going full blast. This work must be done by men. Then there are the strategic railways, which likewise are fully manned. Certain of the routine services of the cities and state cannot be permitted to stop or administrative paralysis will follow. It is obvious, therefore, that Germany has reached her maximum of fighting strength and she could not attain the figures we have given and continue her vital auxiliary services in operation without closing down her principal industries, for she has not enough men to keep them all going; and even as it is she cannot maintain the pace more than a few months. The delusion that Germany has almost illimitable resources of men is easily dispelled on investigation.

A BULLY AND HIS NEIGHBORS.

When the war began the Germans expressed their regret that it was necessary to hack their way through Belgium. They admitted that their act was immoral, a violation of human rights and the accepted laws of nations. But they made this concession to world-opinion. They said they would compensate the Belgian people for the outrages and the destruction necessity compelled them to impose as they hacked their way to domination of the earth. The war lords meant monetary compensation, we suppose, as if the bestowal of money could atone for the atrocious treatment of an unfortunate people by these modern Huns; could restore the dead to life, rehabilitate ravaged homes or compensate for the sufferings of the thousands who have fled for refuge like hunted animals to Holland and Britain. Furthermore, what evidence have the Germans given that their pledge of monetary compensation was promised in good faith? There is every indication that the Kaiser intends that his forces shall permanently establish themselves in Belgium if they can. Ever since they profaned Belgian soil by their presence they have played the part of the highwayman and the freebooter. At the muzzles of guns they have extorted tribute from every city they entered. They have seized and imprisoned prominent citizens as security for the impossible "indemnities" they demanded. They have executed summarily not only persons who actively resisted but even those who appeared to view their conduct with disfavor. Failure to salute a soldier with clanking sabre was set up as a heinous offence. A price has been set upon the head of the king who has proved himself a real man and worthy of his place because he has played an honorable and heroic part in the defence of the rights and the liberties of his people. That is the record of Germany in her relations with a weak neighbor whose only offence is that she, for the vindication of her sovereign rights as an independent nation, did her best to maintain those inalienable rights. Yet there are some Germans in this country and hundreds of thousands of them in the United States, who ought to understand what liberty stands for, who profess to believe that in this war the cause of the Fatherland is sacred.

TO-DAY'S SUMMARY.

That the allies are frustrating the attempt of the reinforced extreme right wing of the German army to skirt the English Channel ports with the object of finding a new route to Paris is indicated by the French official statement given out this afternoon, which asserts that the Belgian army is maintaining its position on the river Yser. Further actions, the statement adds, are being fought between the allies and the Germans in the region of Ypres, Belgium. From Ypres the allied left wing extends to the English Channel, where it is being supported by British naval forces. Along the remainder of the 360-mile battlefield stretching from the North Sea to Switzerland, where the defenders and the invaders have been deeply entrenched for thirty-seven days, the only activity noted is that in the region of the Meuse river, where heavy fighting goes on incessantly, principally in the vicinity of Camp des Romains.

French batteries at St. Mihiel, south of Verdun, are reported to have destroyed an entire battery of German artillery which had been particularly active in sweeping the French positions.

There is a dearth of news from German sources concerning the operations of Emperor William's forces either in France or in Russia.

A huge conflict is in progress along the Vistula river in Russian Poland. Dispatches from Petrograd declare that after fierce fighting to the west of Warsaw the Germans have been driven back toward their main positions on a line from Skierniewice, near Lodz, to Sandomir, on the Galician border.

Russian official reports say that the efforts of the Austrians to cross the river San have been repulsed.

In the Pacific ocean Japan has occupied for military purposes the German islands in the archipelagos of Marshall, Marianne and Carolines. These groups lie from 1,000 to 1,700 miles east of the Philippines and include the American island of Guam. The occupation of Yap, one of the Caroline islands, gives Japan control of the German cable station which connects China with the Malay archipelago. Tokio announces that the German torpedo boat S-90, after escaping under cover of darkness from Tsing Tau, ran ashore at a point south of Kiau Chau bay and was destroyed by the Japanese blockade squadron. It was the S-90, according Advices from Bucharest by way of Berlin reiterate earlier reports that a big Russo-Turkish naval engagement has been fought in the Black Sea.

James W. Gerard, American ambassador to Germany, has succeeded in arranging for the release and departure of all British subjects in Germany over 55 years of age. Similar exchanges have been arranged for the nationals of France and Austria.

King George and Queen Mary returned to London to-day from Sandringham.

A patriotic German writes to the New York Sun objecting to Great Britain being considered "mistress of the seas" and to the singing of "Britannia Rules the Waves." He says the progress of the war does not indicate any justification for such sweeping sentiments. Perhaps the Teutonic champion of world domination is right. At the same time we note that the British fleet is now the extreme left wing of the allied forces, and that from the sea it has been taking an active, and doubtless effective, part in the battles on land. So that perhaps the sweeping expression "mistress of the seas" might be amplified.

The Made-in-Victoria exhibition will open in the drill hall on Thursday next. The object of the exhibitors is to stimulate local interest in articles of native manufacture and production. We trust the exhibition will be successful in its mission, as we have no doubt it will be, because home manufacture and production are the true foundations of permanent prosperity. Everybody in the city should go and see for themselves what our local industries are capable of doing.

HOHENZOLLERN'S CONSCIENCE.

Vain pride, begone!
Thou child of Hell, the crown of ambition
Thou bestowest upon me has fallen to dust,
An empty bauble,
And yet

What could I expect? To think that I should place myself upon an equal plane as that Great Mighty One, The God of Wars!

And call upon His name, invoke His aid upon my dastard actions!
Ambition! Ah, thou wicked genius!
How I nursed thee, and in this pride-blown bosom fondled thee, through vanished years.

And what a gerdion!
The hatred of the world—aye, hatred deep as Hell's dark night,
And through my waking hours, heart-splitting sounds assailed these ears, so long to reason dull.

And in my fitful hours of sleep, a grim array of humans, maimed by my decree, pass through this brain diseased.

Mocking me, nor envying me my lot, though crowned king,
Continual in their silent ranks they pass me,
And with orbs, though sightless, peer into my blackened soul.

Beseeking me with outstretched arms disfigured. To think upon the script that bore my worthless name,
O that I by my once mighty will could blot out such a past infamous.

And walk like other men in Honor's path! But no! Such fate can ne'er be mine. However much the past I might retrieve. No good I ever did could merit such a boon!

For me the future holds perchance, if fate permits,
A blood-stained crown, a tottering throne. Fit recompense for such unworthy deeds that filled my life.

Fame I shall have through untold years, And blazoned on men's hearts my hated name
Shall rank with Nero and his dark compeers,
And to posterity go down with blackest shame.

Tenders for Printing Lists.—At the city council meeting last evening the mayor opened the bids for printing and binding the civic voters' lists for 1915. The tenders were all different, T. R. Cusack's at $2.25 per page being the lowest.

Low Price Continued.—The Producers' Rock and Gravel company has notified the city council of its intention to reduce the price of sand and gravel used on relief street work 25 cents per yard on the contract price quoted earlier in the year. This reduction has been rendered possible through the assistance of Carlin & Fitzpatrick, who have reduced their price on teaming. In mentioning the matter to the city council, the Producers' Rock and Gravel company indicated that if the council found it necessary to continue relief work, the same price would be maintained, subject to the location of the streets involved.

Success at Gardening.—That those who take up the cultivation of vacant lots under the scheme of the land settlement committee of the Victoria Island Development association if they follow the same methods and apply the same particular care to the work as he has done in his nursery, or rather his unusual vegetable garden on Cloverdale avenue, is the opinion of A. J. B. Randy. Two members of the committee, Dr. S. F. Tolmie and Professor Macdonald, of the department of agriculture, have visited the lots which Mr. Randy has under cultivation, and they have expressed themselves as delighted with the great progress he has achieved. He has had success with several varieties of vegetables which hitherto have not been grown to any great extent about Victoria. He urges on those who take up cultivation the necessity of assuring seed purity. He brings his specially prepared seed from France, from which country he has also drawn his progressive ideas.

Approve Part of Resolution.—The city council last evening agreed to support at the convention of the Union of B. C. Municipalities at Kamloops this week a resolution by the Peachland council, asking the government to amend section 134 of the municipal act to enable the government to advance to municipalities, in anticipation of revenue from taxes, a sum to carry on works, at a rate of six per cent. interest, but did not support the latter portion of the resolution which asks for the transference of the municipal sinking funds to the government as security, the government to pay interest thereon. The Peachland council urges its resolution on the grounds that the government would have absolute control of all sinking funds, that there would be the assurance that the municipalities were providing the amounts necessary for sinking funds, that there would be a reduction in the rate of interest paid to banks, a saving to the province of a large amount now paid in interest, and the providing of a good advertisement for investors in municipal securities.

Xmas Photos.—A dozen Corona photos finished in platinum with embossed covers for $5.25 reduced from $7.00 for October only at the Skeels Lowe Studio. This is the last week but one for this special.

Fairfield Road Paving.—On account of anticipated opposition to the paving of Fairfield road, the two notices of motion which stood in Alderman Todd's name have been laid over for a week.

Divorce Action Being Heard.—Mr. Justice Gregory is to-day hearing the divorce action of Macdonald v. Macdonald, in which the wife is suing for a dissolution of the marriage between her and Maynard Macdonald. C. B. S. Phelan is acting for the petitioner and the action is undefended. It is understood that Mrs. Macdonald is contemplating leaving for the scene of the war as a Red Cross nurse.

An Attractive Programme.—One of the finest programmes of motion pictures at the Variety theatre during the part of this week. The "Treasure of Abdur Rahman," a four-part Pathe production, is the headline on the bill. The balance of the show includes a number of very good comedies. Miss Berriman, the popular vocalist, is also appearing at this theatre, in popular selections.

Trials Set in County Court.—In county court chambers this forenoon Judge Lampan set dates for the trial of several actions, as follows: Wilson v. Hinkman, after 2.30 p. m. on November 2; Ridland v. Quinn, October 30; Roy v. Shallcross, Macaulay and company and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, November 20; Silver & Co. v. Eaton, November 16. The case of Hagan v. McNaught was down for hearing this morning but owing to the unavoidable absence of one of the counsel it was postponed until after October 28.

Arrange for Meeting.—The Victoria and District Unemployed league at its meeting last evening decided to make immediate arrangements for a gathering at the Variety theatre, which has been placed at the disposal of the committee by L. J. Quagliotti. The premier and members of the legislature, the mayor and several representative citizens will be invited to occupy seats on the platform. For the committee which waited on the board of directors of the Jubilee hospital on Friday, C. Clavette, chairman, reported. The relief fund now amounts to $193.75. The Stonecutters' union sent $26.50, and the Street Railwaymen $13.50.

First Aid Medallions.—Elve medallions of the St. John Ambulance association, awarded to Victoria ladies, have been received by the honorary secretary of the local centre for presentation to the successful candidates. These are in addition to thirteen first aid certificates awarded in connection with the same class, conducted by Dr. A. B. Hudson last spring and examined by Dr. W. E. Scott-Moncreiff during May. The winners of the medallions are Miss Elizabeth Carr, Mrs. Lena B. Mackenzie, Mrs. Maude Shephard, Miss Agnes Walker, Mrs. Dorothy Wilson. Under the regulations of the association it is necessary, to obtain a medallion, that two examinations in first aid to the injured be passed and a third in either first aid, home nursing, home hygiene or sanitation.

Happy Valley Concert.—Happy Valley schoolhouse was crowded last Friday evening on the occasion of a patriotic entertainment and dance organized by Messrs. Cooper, Beckett, Carter, Ross and Latorla. William Cooper presided as chairman, and one of the most popular numbers of the programme was "Soldiers of the King," sung by Mrs. Rickdale, who also led the highly popular "It's a Long Long Way to Tipperary." In which the audience joined with much enthusiasm. Others who contributed much appreciated numbers were the Misses Gould and Barker, who sang; Fred Barker and Mrs. Cooper, who recited; Mrs. Grey, who sang "O Canada" was sung by Miss Gould and Miss Barker in duet. The evening's proceedings concluded with a dance and the National Anthem.

Action is Dismissed.—In supreme court yesterday afternoon Mr. Justice Gregory dismissed the action of the Olympic Stone Construction company v. Munson and Rowe, of Vancouver, and Broley and Martin, of Steveston, arising out of the sale of the tug Rip Rap. His lordship upheld the contention of the defence that the sale through the former defendants to the latter defendants for cash and exchange was carried through with the knowledge and consent of the agent for the vendors, C. W. Bowman, the president and general manager of the firm.

Diocesan W. A. Meets.—The Very Rev. Dean Doull opened the quarterly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary last Friday evening in the Cathedral schoolroom and Mrs. Atkinson gave an excellent address on "The Ideal of the W. A." A second course of interest was that given by Miss K. Andrews on "The Call of the Mission Field." Reports for the year included the treasurer's report, showing receipts amounting to $150.28 and expenditures of $33.45; the secretary's report, and a statement with respect to some of the more important correspondence received. Resolutions of sympathy were passed to Mr. and Mrs. Hickey, of Parksville on the death of their daughter, and to the widow of the Rev. J. Wilson. The meeting decided that the extra pledge of $300 for the support of the mission at Alert Bay would be undertaken by the Diocesan Board. Branches were asked to contribute a small amount each month toward the educational fund. Miss Ravenhill, of Shawigan Lake, will speak at the November meeting which is to be held in St. Barnabas' schoolroom.

FURS

Some one has said that fur makes a plain woman beautiful and a beautiful woman ravishing.

That may be a bit of poetic extravagance, but there is no question but fur enhances the costume and adds to the beauty of the face.

The average woman does not buy fur as she does a new hat—with the thought that if it is not satisfactory she can easily get another. She buys them after careful consideration and selection, because it means a large expenditure of money and, therefore, must be made to last several seasons.

It is also true that the average woman does not know very much concerning fur value. It is, therefore, necessary that she buys from only reliable fur dealers.

In the advertising columns of the Times are to be seen the announcements of fur sales by reliable merchants in almost every edition.

CRIED WHEN SENTENCED

Man With Several Aliases Quailed at the Prospect of Hard Labor; Says Not German.

Crying out in a loud voice when sentenced to four months' hard labor for begging, it took four officers to remove Max Collebloom, alias Max Goldberg, alias Max Rosenbaum, from the police court this morning. For half an hour afterwards his cries penetrated the whole building.

Evidence of the actual begging was given by Isidore M. Nodce and Adolf Lancaster. The former testified to giving the prisoner five dollars which he soon got rid of. This morning the prisoner explained that he lost the five dollars through a hole in his pocket.

The arrest was made by Detectives Turner and Siciliano, who had previously warned the man to get off the streets and get to work.

An amusing interlude in this morning's proceedings occurred when the prisoner was asked his nationality. Yesterday he informed both Deputy Chief Palmer and Inspector of Detectives Perdue that he was a German Jew, but evidently having reconsidered since then that he was more likely to get off if he took his nationality from one of the allied nations, he swore solemnly in the witness box that he was a Russian Jew.

"Where were you born?" asked Magistrate Jay.

Collebloom thought for a moment. "Lodz," he finally answered.

"That is close to the Prussian border, isn't it?" asked the magistrate.

"About one hundred miles off," said the prisoner.

In spite of all questions he still maintained that Russian Poland saw his birth. Later he admitted having a criminal record in San Francisco, and the possession of several aliases.

It was only when the magistrate added the words "hard labor" to the sentence that he began to yell.

Garden City Women's Institute.—Through the energy of Mrs. V. MacLachlan, Carey road, a new women's institute has been organized at Garden City. Already the institute has a membership of thirty.

Is Vagrant.—Convicted of vagrancy in the police court this morning, Frank James was allowed out on his own recognizances for one day to give him an opportunity to leave town. When arrested he had a ticket to Seattle on his person, and Magistrate Jay suggested that he make use of it to-day.

Missing Six Weeks.—The police are making urgent inquiries to ascertain the whereabouts of William Arthur Yeo, of 1937 Blanshard avenue, who has been missing from home for about six weeks. His wife is very anxious as a result of his disappearance and any word as to where he is located will be gratefully received at the city detective office, Cormorant street.

Soldier and Horseman.—At High River, Alberta, on Saturday, the death occurred of Murray Hendrie, as the result of a wagon accident. The late Mr. Hendrie was a frequent visitor to this city, his last visit being two months ago, when he was the guest of E. B. Macleod. As a horseman the late Mr. Hendrie was noted all over the country, and at his ranch in Alberta he carried on the business of raising and training high-grade animals. He was thirty-seven years old, the youngest son of the late William Hendrie, of Hamilton, and a half-brother of Hon. J. S. Hendrie, newly-appointed lieutenant-governor of Ontario, and of Colonel Hendrie, who has gone to the front with the volunteers from the 48th Highlanders of Toronto. He was himself a soldier, like all the other men of his family, had served in South Africa and had offered his services in the present war.

Hugo Lutgens Gives Inimitable Impersonation at Pantages Theatre; Other Attractive Numbers.

The impression made last evening at Pantages theatre by Hugo Lutgens in his unique impersonation of a Swedish preacher will not soon be forgotten by those who enjoyed the privilege of witnessing this masterly, though all too short, performance. Without a quiver of a muscle the actor solemnly denounced, with rare intonation and surprisingly-contorted English, various loosenesses in the domestic observations of his flock. A budget of announcements of sewing-meetings, losts and founds, and other interesting items, read with the amusing impression, added to the gaiety of the big audience. The absence of any religious reference removed the act from criticism in this respect.

A quite delightful little act, innocent alike in its repartee, dances and dress, was that furnished by Peppie and Elliott, with an octette of minstrel maids in picturesque colonial dress. A harmonious trio, some harmless but quite appropriate topical conundrums, and three graceful tambourine dancers were features of the turn.

Isabella Fletcher must have made friends in Victoria on some previous visit, as her appearance was marked by applause. "Be Game," the sensational one-act play of the Canadian woods in which she starred, presents a dramatic situation and, incidentally, four capable actors who furnish an interesting performance.

Delwood and Snow provided ventriloquist entertainment, which, if not abounding in particularly smart dialogue, at least demonstrated the peculiarly efficient skill of the speakers in throwing their voices "all over the shop," as the Welshman has it.

A pantomime novelty in which whirling plates, bouquets, balls and basins played a conspicuous part, is executed by Leon and the Adeline sisters.

MEETINGS RESUMED.

Natural History Society Hears Entertaining Story of South American Revolution by F. O. Wallace.

The Natural History society last evening resumed its regular meetings, the organization convening under the chairmanship of A. S. Barton in the King's Daughters' rest room, Courtney street.

The story of his experiences in some of the South American states, told by F. O. Wallace, formed the principal feature of the evening's proceedings aside from the inspection of several interesting specimens of curious deformities in shrubs and some examples of birds collected at Lost Lake and Saanich by C. C. Pemberton.

Considerable amusement was excited by Mr. Wallace's narrative, which gave a very entertaining description of how a South American revolution is conducted, graft being one of the

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for 50 cents.

Peps is the discovery!

Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down. On their journey they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the throat and air passages, and carry with them relief and healing. Peps are entirely distinct from the old-fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely swallowed into the stomach. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1 cent stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto, or 804 Canada Block, Winnipeg. Bell, of Stanley street, Esquimalt, and Ormond Anderson, son of Capt. F. Anderson, of 2314 Cook street. The bride was given away by her brother, H. R. Bell, and looked well in white satin and carrying a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Tessie Pelletier, her bridesmaid, wore a frock of white and orange and carried a bouquet of white and yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Frank Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who are spending their honeymoon visiting various places on Vancouver Island, will make their home at 2730 Roseberry avenue. The bride's traveling costume was a smart suit of prune-colored cloth, with hat to match.

Rear-Admiral W. O. Story arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Guelph, Ont., and stayed the night at the Empress hotel.

Rev. G. H. Andrews, rector of St. Mary's church, Oak Bay, on Wednesday, October 14, celebrated the marriage between Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Du Bois, and Frank Lawson De Salls. The bride wore an attractive and becoming robe of white corded and beaded with Mechlin lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her sister, Miss Phyllis Du Bois, wearing a dainty frock of white, was maid of honor, and Gordon Burdick filled the role of best man. The church was well-filled with friends of the bride and bridegroom, among those who witnessed the ceremony being Mr. and Mrs. Du Bois, parents of the bride; Major De Salls, 88th Fusiliers, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. De Salls; Mrs. F. Clayton, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. A. English, Miss Calley, Miss Bunting and Miss Williamson. After their honeymoon trip in Seattle Mr. and Mrs. De Salls will return to Victoria to make their home here.

A beautiful home wedding was that which took place last evening at 8 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Todd, Pine street, when their eldest daughter, Christina Watson, was united in marriage to James Farrell, son of the late William Farrell and Mrs. Farrell. Rev. Dr. Maclean, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. MacRae, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by about forty of the relatives and more intimate friends of the young couple. The drawing-room, in which the ceremony was solemnized, was attractively decorated with autumn foliage and flowers, and the bride, in her simple and girlish frock of white silk trimmed with shadow lace and filmy veil of white, added to the charming picture. She carried a bouquet of carnations and bride's roses, and was attended by one bridesmaid, Miss Katie Todd, who was prettily dressed in pearl grey silk and net. Earl S. Brenan acted as best man, and the bride was given away by her brother, Andrew Todd, owing to her father's illness preventing his presence. After the ceremony refreshments were served, and Mr. and Mrs. Farrell received the hearty good wishes of their friends before leaving for their short honeymoon trip on the mainland. On their return they will take up their residence in Victoria, the bridegroom being a member of the local branch of P. Burns & Co., Ltd.

AT THE THEATRES

ANNETTE KELLERMANN.

Annette Kellermann in the masterpiece film "Neptune's Daughter," will be seen at the Royal Victoria theatre again this evening.

It has been some time since there has been so much activity in photo-play as Annette Kellermann in "Neptune's Daughter" creates. There are seven reels in the film, which tells a fantastic story of mermaids and kings, fishermen and court conspirators. It is beautifully set in locations along the Bermuda seashore. Miss Kellermann first appears as a mermaid with fins and scales. She is later transformed into a mortal.

DE WOLF HOPPER.

On Wednesday, Oct. 28, De Wolf Hopper and the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company will be seen in a double bill, "H. M. S. Pinafore," and "Trial by Jury," and on Thursday, Oct. 29, they will offer "The Pirates of Penzance."

Besides De Wolf Hopper, the cast includes Idelle Patterson, Gladys Caldwell, Jayne Herbert, Anabel Jordan, Una Brooks, Maude Mordant, Arthur Aldridge, Herbert Waters, Arthur Cunningham, John Willard and C. W. Phillips.

It was four years ago that William A. Brady, with so many well known musical stars at his disposal, came to the conclusion that the time was ripe for a revival of those Gilbert and Sullivan operettas which had come to be regarded as classics, provided they were properly cast and presented with that same religious adherence to the traditions laid down by the authorities themselves in their first production. That this manager reckoned well is a matter of record, as with every revival was established the fact that the wit and satire of Gilbert and the melodic charm and vivacity of Sullivan's music still preserved their potency to the fullest degree.

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN.

The ever popular classic dancer and mimic, Gertrude Hoffman, with her new Revue comes to the Royal Victoria theatre, October 21 and 22, for two nights and two matinees.

The bright particular feature of the revue this season is Zobeide's Dream, which relates with all the poetry of motion the story of a harem favorite who is stolen by one of her husband's horsemen and taken into the wilds of a desert where she continually dreams of the scenes she has witnessed during her life. It is with the dream that the fantasy has to do and every audience is taken of the scenic possibilities and the contrast between the languid women of the east and the wildness of the rugged roughness of the Arab soldiers is vividly drawn. Directly the opposite to Zobeide's Dream is another strikingly beautiful number, Strauss' famous Blue Danube Waltz which Miss Hoffman will visualize with the very poetry of motion assisted by an augmented orchestra and a specially designed scenic innovation.

"Joseph," said a merchant to his bookkeeper, "I owe about three thousand pounds. I have seven hundred pounds in the safe, but our stock is absolutely run down. I think it is about time I failed." "Yes, sir," said the courteous bookkeeper. "But I want a plausible pretext for my creditors. You have got brains, and I want you carefully to think the matter over to-night." The bookkeeper promised to do his very best. The next morning the merchant found to his cost that the bookkeeper had done his very best, for, on entering the office, he found the safe open, the money gone, and in its place a note which ran as follows: "I have taken the £700 and eked it. It is the best excuse you can give your creditors."—Weekly Telegraph.

Health and Beauty Answers
BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

CLARA: I made my faded, "stringy" hair take on its natural color and become soft, fluffy and brilliant by shampooing with canthox, a teaspoonful of which I dissolved in a cup hot water. It gently, yet thoroughly, dissolved dust, dirt and excess oil, and when I rinsed it out left the scalp healthy and pliant. Since my first trial I have used nothing but this.

IPHIGENIA: Yes, you can be sure of hair beauty if you give it proper care. Rid your head of itching dandruff by use of this economical, home-made tonic, which will make your scalp so healthy that the hair naturally grows long and heavy. Get an ounce of quinine at your druggists, dissolve it in one half pint of alcohol, add one half pint cold water and rub into hair roots daily.

ANTOINETTE: Instead of making over your gowns because you have outgrown them, why not try this harmless flesh-reducer? Get four ounces of paraffin from your druggist. Dissolve it in one and one-half pints hot water. Take a teaspoonful before each meal and you will see a gradual decrease in weight without loss of strength or sagging skin. It is simple, harmless and effective. Requires no dieting or exercise.

MILICENT: Don't be frightened into buying eye-glasses before you really need them. It is better to strengthen the eyes than to aid their weakness. For home-made tonic, which has both beautified and strengthened mine. Dissolve an ounce of crystals in one half pint of water. Two drops daily, or several times daily, will give relief to tired or aching eyes and soon make them clear and sparkling.

CELIA: You say, "I am a slave to my powder rag." Why not try this fine liquid beautifier? It is lasting in effect and economical, besides being fine to the skin and tone the skin and rid it of sallowness or bluishness. Get 4 ounces of spermaceti, add two teaspoonfuls glycerine and one half pint hot water or witch hazel. This makes a big quantity and is far better than the ordinary face powder. It will be very soothing and will seem like a part of your skin.

MISS O: The "face cream without grease" which you will ask about is easily prepared at home by this recipe: Get from your druggist one ounce of almonin; dissolve it in one half pint cold water. Add two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one, stir well and let stand over night. Apply it frequently, and prevent wrinkles and all skin flabbiness. It is cleansing, soothing and healing, and there is nothing better to relieve chapped, red, or itchy skin.

NO ONE KNOWS WHERE GRAND FLEET RIDES

Rear-Admiral Story Says Jellicoe Alone Can Tell; Officer Comes to Esquimalt

An active, kindly man, who looks a good deal younger than his fifty-five year, Rear-Admiral W. O. Story, who arrived in the city yesterday afternoon to take his new command at Esquimalt, evidently believes more in deeds than in words. When approached by a Times reporter for an interview the admiral had nothing to say.

Asked to give some opinion about the war he remarked that he had been living in Canada for two years and knew no more about what was going on at the theatre of hostilities than what the bulletins told him.

"What do you think the British fleet is doing?"

"I have made many inquiries on the subject myself," he answered smilingly, "but so far as I can ascertain no single person in the British Isles knows in the slightest degree where the grand fleet is situated at the present time. Sir John Jellicoe knows, but he won't tell."

Though at one time during his ser-

Had No Power Over the Limbs

Locomotor Ataxia, Heart Trouble and Nervous Spells Yielded to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It would be easy to tell you how Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures locomotor ataxia and derangements of heart and nerves, but it may be more satisfactory to you to read this letter.

Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D., 3 Sombra, Ont., writes: "Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

What Germany Must Pay

By Sir H. Johnston, in London Chronicle

While these lines are being written the tide of German success may be turning . . . turning . . . to a national and dynastic disaster unparalleled in modern history, but deserved, self-inflicted, if any people's ruin was by the spirit and the methods adopted by a nation's chosen rulers and favored instructors.

Germany has fought western Europe by foul means as well as fair; by floating, drifting mines that for the most part damage neutrals or non-combatants; by printed and whispered lies sedulously circulated among the distant, the impressionable, and the easily gulled; by blackmail ("Either you stump up millions of pounds or I efface for ever the historical beauty and interest of your land"); by terror and a Satanic appeal to human pity—the terror caused by Red Indian atrocities, Turkish massacres of non-combatants, and the shameful trading on pity by using recovered and aged men, women, priests, and children as body-shields; by dressing in the uniform of the foe; by posing as Red Cross officers; by hoisting the white flag to lure honest soldiers into the death-zone.

While no British, French, Russian, Belgian, Serbian, Montenegrin, Indian, Japanese or North African soldier will wish to vie with Prussian, Mecklenburger, Silesian, Saxon, or Hanoverian in the abominable side of war; while German architects, churches, and other national achievements in art and science are safe from the invading armies of the allies (save for the unavoidable accidents of warfare); while it is virtually certain that no German maid or matron will be outraged, no German priest or chemist shot or hacked to death, no German child bayoneted, it is still necessary that nothing recorded of German wickedness should be forgotten, should remain unpaid for when the day of reckoning arrives.

Monetary Tributes.

Even the loss to the world of the outer and inner beauty of Paris, the cutting down of those trees which cannot be replaced in your or my lifetime—middle-aged or aged reader!—the far worse destruction of forest loveliness, out round Brussels shall be avenged, shall be imperfectly atoned for; not by robbing Germany of her beauty—none of that!—but by money fines that shall reduce Germany for many years to a wholesome and penitential impotence. Just as the Rothschilds in Buckinghamshire, by spending thousands of pounds imparting to their estates the sylvan loveliness of neighboring Forest, in that they conveyed thither the seeds of growth and planted groves and parks of Paris and of Brussels shall be made good by German money. For every beauty in architecture that Germany is now laying low with gunpowder and dynamite in Flanders and Brabant, in the Liegeois and Namurois and in Belgian Luxembourg and the northeast of France, she shall pay; pay for the complete rebuilding and redecoration, pay for restoration and a bit over. The more she keeps destroying the more crushing shall be her national debt. She shall pay indemnities to those who have survived the destruction of their homes in Belgium or in France, pay for the support of the widow, the parents, the children of all whom her soldiers have barbarously and unjustly slain; pay for robbing the western world needlessly, inexcusably, of two years of happiness, pay for the destruction of tourist-carrying French railways, for the interruption of our North sea fishing industry, for the loss of every penny occasioned by enforced idleness or foreign imprisonment, for every ship and life she has destroyed among our fishing folk and those of France and Belgium.

How She Will Pay. And none will press more mercilessly this demand for indemnification than the former friends and advocates of Germany in this country, the men and women who sought fair play for Germany in the councils of Great Britain and obtained it, who desired that her reasonable and justified ambitions should be satisfied, and had secured that adequate satisfaction some months before this war broke out.

But how is Germany to pay? some will ask. She will soon be bankrupt, even if by some perverse turn in the wheel of fate she recovers lost ground in France and her unopposed occupation of Belgium. Even her colonies are only worth so much, nothing near the £100,000,000 she will be asked to pay to Belgium, the £200,000,000 she will owe to France, and as yet uncalculated sum she will (in addition to her war fleet) be required to make over to Britain and Russia. Well, she will only meet her obligations, which will have to be enforced by territorial occupation on a large scale, by a virtual revolution. All the German states must go into the melting-pot, Prussia most and first of all. The private estates of all her rulers and princes—first and foremost of the Hohenzollerns—must be escheated by the revolutionary government and be applied to the redemption of German territory. If Germany likes to retain, after war is over, her present, or something near her present, territorial divisions and dynasties, she must allot to her chosen princes, kings and emperors a reasonable civil list, payment for value received. But all their private estates, their vast domains, their house treasures and trusts and concealed funds must become national property.

The Ruin of Austria.

Once Germany is purged of Prussia, once the Hohenzollerns are exiled on modest annuities, once she is made a really democratic empire or republic, she will soon recover from her woes—as soon, perhaps, as France did after 1871. But it will be long before the treatment of Belgium is forgiven and forgotten, and Germany is admitted to diplomatic relations and equal brotherhood by the states she has wantonly injured. Austria can point to her as the ruin of the Austrian empire; and perhaps the only reparation she can make in that direction after the death of the Emperor Francis Joseph is the incorporation of all German-speaking Austria into a fully enfranchised German realm.

But in the Day of Reckoning our justice must not end there. Whether Turkey strikes or not at the allies, she has already injured them in devious ways. No longer—the German prop and aid removed—must the autonomy and preservation of Armenia be delayed. Russia must have the fullest satisfaction and security she cares to demand, that the Bosphorus and Hellespont shall be no more a padlock on her trade and enterprise and on the world's need for Russian grain and Russian oil. The least the Western world can do for her in return for saving Western civilization and restoring Poland to nationhood is to provide her with that free access to the Mediterranean which is necessary to her development. Belgium must have territorial enlargement in several directions, France a Rhine frontier, the international character of the Baltic sea must be secured for all its limnographic nationalities.

And last, but not least in the Day of Reckoning Britain must see, shall see, if the press can make her (for politicians' memories are notoriously unretentive), that her soldiers and sailors (the rank and file and not only the officers) are amply rewarded for the efforts they have made and will have made to secure for the British Empire a satisfactory and lasting peace. They must be handsomely paid for their time of war service and be provided afterwards with lucrative careers. We must and shall treat them as the United States (laughed at, as it was, in this land which then let its soldiers die in the workhouse) treated the veterans and the widows and offspring of the fighters who re-established the Union of the North American republic.

On board the troopship Desado, en route to —, all men were advised to be vaccinated (says a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian). Three or four days after, when the arms were taking well, the following conversation was heard between two privates of different battalions of the same regiment: "Bill, I see that's gotten four marks on thy arm and I've nobbut three." "Ay, tha knows, I belong to the 4th battalion, and we've all gotten four marks on us arms." "I'll tell you what it is, Bill; it's a dashed good do we don't belong to the 10th battalion!"

SWIMMER AS ACTRESS

Annette Kellermann Shows Herself in New Roles in Movie Drama; Large Crowds Attended Royal Victoria.

A crowded house at the Royal Victoria last night watched with breathless interest the unfolding of the charming fairy story which the Universal Moving Picture company has designed as the vehicle for the talent of Annette Kellermann.

To those who expected to see the famous Australian swimmer merely as a skilful exponent of the natatorial art, there was a surprise in store, for the graceful Annette adds to her performances in the water a finished piece of acting and some clever dancing.

The story in which Miss Kellermann appears is a blend of mystic and romance. As a mermaid she is one of a crowd of fishy daughters of Neptune who have their habitation beneath the waves and their favorite rendezvous in a cave. Later a witch gives her a shell, the touch of which transforms her immortality to mortality, in which guise she goes through many adventures, some pleasant and some not. But it all comes right in the end, and she marries the king of the little country into which as a mortal she is thrown.

There are several very fine scenes in the photodrama, notably that in which Annette performs fancy diving from a high cliff, and the great fight on the edge of the precipice with the man who has been hired to murder her. The acting throughout is of the highest order, and the interest of the story and the charm of the principal figure hold the audience spellbound until the end.

The visiting lady had kept her hostess at the open door fully half-an-hour saying good-bye. Finally an irate masculine voice indoors called out, "Say, Maria, if you're going, go; if you're staying, stay; but for Heaven's sake, don't ooze out."—"Harper's Magazine."

THE GOD OF BLOOD AND IRON

By A. G. G., in London Daily News

I had never thought that a time would come when I should look on the soldier's uniform with envy and when my one grievance against the year of my birth would be that it forbade me to join the throng outside the recruiting office. But, then, I never thought that this fair earth would become a hell, that a time would come when to awake in the golden light of September mornings would be to awake to a sense of universal desolation and death that darkens the sun and makes the peaceful routine of other days seem almost unbearable. The sunshine that floods the quiet English countryside as I write floods too poor, stricken Belgium and the fair land of France, floods the ravaged towns and the burning villages and the trampled corn fields where the dead lie more thick than the sheaves of corn.

Happy dead! It is not they who make it so hard to sit idle. The soldier has his compensations. There is joy in battle and peace in death, but think of the old and the young, the women and the helpless fleeing before this unimaginable horror, cowering in cellars, starving in woods, their homes a heap of ashes, their husbands and fathers and brothers gone they know not where, and every moment an age of nameless fear. I see in that scene described in these columns on Thursday by Mr. Phillips all this vast tragedy summed up in one pitiful picture—the three beautiful peasants digging the hurried grave of the woman whom they had found with a bullet wound in her head. They did not know her name or whence she had fled or what was her tragic story. All that they knew was that they had found her, like so many more, dead in the red wake of the tempest. See in her the image of Belgium, the image of France, and we have some measure of this immeasurable woe.

"There Are No Words."

Or take those scenes described in the Times of the same day by Mr. A. J. Dawe. He and his friend are captured by a German troop which is on its way to destroy the village of Sten-Ocker.

"We turned off into the main street of the village, and were made to hold up our hands and taken to the far end of the street. Here we were covered by a couple of soldiers armed with revolvers. Close to us in the middle of the road was stationed a Maxim gun ready to mow down the inhabitants if they resisted the burning of the village. For three terrible hours we had to stand there watching the destruction that began at the other end of the street. The men who were guarding us told us that from certain houses shots had been fired by the civilians during the morning upon a passing German troop and that several Uhlans had been killed.

"They began upon the houses from which the shots were supposed to have been fired. These houses were soon splitting with fire and shooting up great flames. Here and there the fire soon spread along the whole street. The women and children were herded together and set aside. We heard the quick sounds of rifle shots as the escaping civilians were picked off."

He is released and reaches the city which was once Louvain—that name that will be branded on the brow of Germany for ever:

"Burning houses were every moment falling into the roads; shooting was still going on. The dead and dying, burnt and burning, lay on all sides. Over some the Germans had placed sacks. I saw about half a dozen women and children. In one street I saw two little children walking hand in hand over the bodies of the dead men. I have no words to describe these things."

No, there are no words for these things, deeper even than tears—strike to that ultimate indignation that has no relief except the relief of action. If the Kaiser and his army should come to disaster, and have to flee, beaten, through the land they have ravaged, they will pay a dreadful reckoning.

The Horrors and Their Meaning.

Do not let us exaggerate. Do not let us suppose that war can ever be free from horrors. It was not so even in the most civilized, the most generous, the most noble war that was ever waged—the civil war in the United States. It is not likely to be so in the war which the Russians are waging in East Prussia. The methods of the Cossacks have made their name a terror in Germany, and it is one of the incredible phases of the Kaiser's lapse into barbarism that he should deliberately have invited the Russians to avenge the Belgians on his own people.

No, war is always by its nature horrible, but there is something in the story of Belgium that gives it a character of its own. It is something that we must probe if we would understand all that is meant by this war and all that is at stake in it. The Kaiser has taken Attila and his Huns as a model. But these horrors are not the work of real Huns. Attila did not talk of culture or call himself "the Scourge of God." He was a rapacious barbarian and did not affect to be anything else. But Belgium has been desolated in cold blood, on calculated principles, by a nation of philosophers and intellectuals. It has been butchered and outraged not from lust of revenge or even from cruelty. It has been butchered on a nicely considered "theory" and according to the doctrines of a stern faith.

A Spiritual Conflict.

And it is that faith with which we are concerned. For behind all the apparent and even real motives of the war—dynastic, commercial, racial, and so on—there is a profoundly spiritual motive. It is a conflict, not so much of nations as of ideals, not of kings but of religions. It will decide whether our civilization is to rest on a material foundation or a moral foundation, whether it is to be governed by the calculations of the head or the intuitions of the soul whether it is to be in its essence spiritual or a mechanical force.

In claiming that in this conflict of ideals it is we who have our faces turned towards the light, it is not suggested that we are free from the idolatry of Force. The astonishing triumph of the mind over matter in the last two decades has left its mark deep on this country. The loosening of the foundations of faith has been accompanied, perhaps hastened, by a material mastery of the forces of nature that was undreamed of a generation ago. We have learned to sail the sky and to send engines of death through the depths of the sea; we have chained the lightning and made the pulses of the air the invisible messengers of our will; we have invented guns that carry death for twenty miles and explosives more terrible than any thunderbolt. All this growth of material power has been unchecked by an equivalent growth of moral power or social conscience, and the result is a certain tyrannous exploitation of self based largely on the possession of material power. The Prussian spirit is not confined to Prussia. It is everywhere. That, and not the German people, is the ultimate enemy. The road-hog, who uses that hideous, bullying brute that sounds like a brutal curse on everything that impedes his path, is the symbol of the Prussian spirit in our midst.

The English Method.

But we have not made brute force a national idol, sustained by a philosophy and worshipped as a new religion. We may still broadly claim that wherever we have gone we have carried the spirit of freedom and the authority of the moral law. We tried the mailed fist once across the Atlantic and lost the United States and we have never tried it again. The Liberal faith saved Canada 70 years ago and it has saved the British empire throughout. That is why Australia and Canada are sending their legions to us in our need—not grudgingly or of necessity, but cheerful givers. "Thy father has sent his son to me: I'll send my son to him." That is why even Mr. Tilak, the leader of the extremists in India who has spent years in prison for his political propaganda, is at this moment opposing all internal dissension in India. If we want an authentic expression of the English spirit we have it in that memorable concession of self-government to South Africa which was so fiercely opposed by our own Prussians under Lord Milner. Does anyone doubt the wisdom of that measure today? Contrast that episode with the story of Alsace and the incident of Zabern and we shall have some understanding of what is at stake.

The Idol.

Now the case is otherwise with Germany. In saying this do not let us forget to be just. After all, we are what our circumstances make us.

Time and the ocean and some guiding star. In high cabal have made us what we are.

We had the good fortune to inherit an island, with the inviolate seas for a defence and the free ocean as a pathway to all the world. Liberalism had a chance on such a soil. The Germans had the bad fortune to be cast in the midst of Europe, with Slavs to the east and Latins to the south and west. They lived with fear and survived by fighting.

And the weapon that had given them freedom became the idol of their worship. They fell, in a national sense, under the spell of a monster who has made all their wonderful genius and their fine character subservient to his will. The doctrine of force by which they had "hacked their way through" became their gospel. Prussia imposed it on the rest of Germany. Teutonic, the prophet of the cult, preached it as ruthlessly against the inferior German states before the federation as afterwards he preached it against other powers. It ceased to be a means of defence and became the expression of the national spirit. Nietzsche, with his repudiation of Christianity and its "slave morality," and his hideous exaltation of the Superman and the "master morality" of brute force, gave the sanction of genius to the new religion and Bernhardi has stated the doctrine of purgation by war and the righteousness of unprovoked wars with the cold abstractness of a college don.

Fear and Force.

The German people accepted the gospel as a necessity of their existence. They are of our own stock and in our land would have developed on our lines. But their position has placed them under the heel of militarism and at the mercy of the despotism that they hate but have been unable to destroy. The sense of enveloping danger, above all the sense of the vastness of the shadow of Russia have made them prisoners of the system that is the creation of the Prussian aristocracy and the cold-blooded philosophers of might.

Perhaps they might have broken the enchantment if they had not been surrounded by fear. There is a striking passage in the White book that shows that in those thrilling days that preceded the war Sir Edward Grey felt that that fear was not baseless—the passage in which he undertook, if peace was preserved, to work for an arrangement which would secure Germany against any menace of hostile action by Russia, France, or ourselves. It is worth thinking about that passage and the light it throws on the past. I mention this because much that I am writing here may seem like a recantation. It is not. The war came out of the spirit of fear as well as the doctrine of force.

Blood and Iron.

But it is with the latter that we now have to deal. It perverted all the energies of Germany to one terrific purpose—the purpose of making itself terrible in war. Its civil liberties were crushed under the heel of an insistent caste. Its astonishing genius for organization became the instrument for military efficiency, and Bismarck's schemes of state socialism were all governed by the twin purpose of making the people subservient at home and feared abroad. Even the nationalization of the railways, admirable though its results have been, was designed not as a measure of military necessity. Every tenuity of the science of destruction has been developed with absorbing energy and no consideration of pity or humanity has been allowed to interfere with the decrees of the god of blood and iron. That deity has no bowels of compassion. He grinds the small nations he has undertaken to protect under his iron heel and talks of a sacred treaty as "a scrap of paper." He strews the seas with his engines of death regardless of what disaster they may bring to the innocent. He flings his bombs from the sky upon the sleeping city, scornful of women and children. He burns towns and villages and slaughters the old and the weak, not in anger or in lust, but according to an iron rule. He is merciless even with his own. He flings them in close formation on certain death. They must hack their way through or die.

The rule of might may triumph for a season, but the rule of right must win in the end, for there can be no end without its victory. And in destroying the idol we shall not only liberate Germany from its evil genius, but we shall drive out that genius from other lands where the example of Prussia has given it root. Humanity is going to pay a great price, but it will not pay it in vain. The price is its blood, but the reward is its liberty and a larger and nobler life.

That is why I find myself watching the soldier in his uniform with envy.

Enthusiast (explaining the situation).—"Let this 'ere meat-axe be the Russians a-comin' in on the east; the carvin'-knife's the Frenchies along 'ere; our boys is the mustard-pot; and 'ere's the Germans—this 'ere plate o' tripe."—"Punch."

SANTA CATALINA IS

SWEPT BY BIG FIRE

Grace Liner's Machinery Has Been Ruined; Ship Beached on Columbia

Fire that cost one life, ruined the vessel's machinery and forced the officers and crew to abandon her after running her ashore, broke out Sunday afternoon in the Grace Liner Santa Catalina in the Columbia river and was not extinguished until yesterday. Part of the vessel's 2,000-ton cargo escaped serious damage, according to advices received from Portland.

A fireman named Johnson died in the flames. He was trapped in the fire-room.

The vessel was en route from New York to Portland to discharge shipments for that port before continuing her voyage to Puget Sound. The conflagration was preceded by an explosion below decks, the detonation of which was plainly heard in towns ten miles from the scene. It occurred at 4:30 o'clock when the Santa Catalina was thirty miles below Portland.

Flames immediately shot up from below and swept over the decks. The fire gained headway so rapidly that Capt. J. F. Ross, the master, saw that it was out of the question to try to bring it under control, and he beached the steamship. The river steambot Eureka, which was nearby, hurried to the rescue and took off those aboard, including Captain Ross's wife and baby. A few moments later the flames had enveloped the decks.

New Steamship. Efforts to subdue the flames proved unavailing until late yesterday morning when they were finally extinguished. An examination showed that the fire had ruined the steamship's machinery and indicated that part of the cargo had escaped damage.

The Santa Catalina is a new steel steamship, having been launched last year, and with the other vessels of Grace & Company's Atlantic & Pacific Steamship company, is operated in the New York and Seattle route via the Panama canal. She is a sister ship of the Santa Cecilia and the Santa Clara.

She was due in Seattle next Friday to discharge her New York freight and load heavy shipments of salmon and lumber for the return voyage to the North Atlantic.

The vessel has four cargo holds and advices received indicate that most of the cargo in two of the holds had not been damaged either by fire or water.

TO COMPLAIN ABOUT

SEIZURE OF TANKER

American Oil-Carrier Brindilla, Formerly German Ship, Captured by Caronia

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 20.—Just what plan will be pursued with the American tank steamer Brindilla, seized by the British auxiliary cruiser Caronia, and brought here yesterday, could not be learned yesterday. It is supposed that the Brindilla, formerly the German steamer Washington, was suspected of having contraband aboard.

The Brindilla remained anchored in the harbor yesterday. The military guard placed on the steamer on Sunday remained aboard, and so far as is known none of the Brindilla's crew has yet been allowed ashore. The matter of the Brindilla's seizure and detention is in the hands of the prize court officials, and the naval officers at Halifax have now practically nothing to do with the ship.

To Consult Washington. New York, Oct. 20.—David L. Warden, manager of the foreign department of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, said yesterday that he was awaiting authorization from the board of directors before taking up at Washington the matter of the seizure of the Brindilla. He thought a complaint would be made.

Awaiting Particulars. Washington, Oct. 20.—President Wilson had not been officially informed yesterday of the seizure of the American tank steamer Brindilla by a British cruiser, but told callers he was following the case with interest. Generally speaking a ship of a neutral nation, bound from one neutral port to another, was exempt from seizure, but he did not know enough of the particulars to say what position would be taken by the American government.

If one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours.—Thoreau.

LAST OF MAPLE LEAF

VESSELS VIA STRAIT

Buena Ventura Heard Two Ships Communicating by Wireless; Going South

"Yes, I'm glad to say that this is our last trip by the Strait of Magellan, and we're the last ship of the line to use that route." This was the statement of Capt. Fitzsimmons, master of the Maple Leaf liner Buena Ventura, when asked this morning as to whether or not this was the last voyage of the ship via the Antarctic waterway. Capt. Fitzsimmons expresses himself in regard to passage through the stormy South American strait in words similar to those of all other seafaring men. The opening of the Panama canal has been a blessing to mariners who have ever passed through the Strait of Magellan in the heart of winter.

Capt. Fitzsimmons reports a prolonged voyage from New York, which port was left on June 3. The vessel had good weather out to Valparaiso, and nothing uneventful transpired. While she was lying at the Chilean port the European war broke out and the owners ordered the vessel to change from British to American registry. For 48 days the ship rode at anchor at Valparaiso while the necessary papers were being made out. Capt. Fitzsimmons says that out of the numerous British vessels which called in there during the time the Buena Ventura was held up, his ship was the only one to change her flag.

The Buena Ventura called at Antofagasta and Buena Ventura after leaving Valparaiso, and then proceeded direct to Victoria. She ran in close to the San Francisco heads to report herself. The steamship encountered strong south-east wind and a moderate swell on the run up the coast.

The Buena Ventura has heavy shipments of steel plates and rails in her holds consigned to Victoria, Vancouver and Squamish. She is discharging 450 tons of freight here, and will probably get away to-night for the Terminal. It is understood that the steamship will load homeward cargo at Puget Sound ports and San Francisco. She will use the canal on her return to the United Kingdom.

SEVENTY-FOUR VESSELS

CHANGE TO U. S. FLAG

Washington, Oct. 20.—Seventy-four foreign-built vessels with an aggregate of 266,373 gross tons have sought protection of the Stars and Stripes by taking American registry since the European war began, according to an official statement issued to-day by the department of commerce. Great Britain has been the heaviest loser, as sixty-two of the vessels previously sailed under the British flag. Seven German and five Belgian vessels complete the list.

Forty-nine of the vessels are freighters and twenty are passenger ships. The remaining five are not designated. Eleven vessels secured provisional registry through American consuls.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

PRINCESS IRENE IS

LAUNCHED ON CLYDE

Sister Ship to Margaret Sent Down Ways To-day; Mrs. Heritage Sponsor

Sliding down the greased ways at Denny Bros' shipyard at Dumbarton, Scotland, while the guests and the employees gave vent to loud cheering, the new C. P. R. flyer Princess Irene, was successfully launched this morning. Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B. C. Coast Service, received a cablegram to-day from the old country stating that the second of the two sister-ships building for service on this coast had taken her maiden plunge into the murky waters of the Clyde.

The honor of christening the fine craft fell to a well known local lady, Mrs. J. A. Heritage, wife of the chief engineer of the Princess Margaret. The sponsor broke a bottle of champagne over the sharp steel stem of the great coaster as the button was pressed releasing the cradles on which the Princess rested. The Irene commenced to gather momentum and soon the ways were smoking as the craft slid on into the river.

Launching Delayed.

It was expected that the Irene would have been launched about six weeks ago, but the shipbuilders were held up considerably by the war. The vessel is well advanced, however, and she will be ready to leave the Clyde early next year on her voyage to Victoria.

Princess Margaret is now being tuned up for her trial trips and will probably get away from Dumbarton for this port some time in December. The Princess Margaret and Princess Irene are sister-ships and will operate on the triangular service between Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver. The ships are 395 feet in length and have a beam of 54 feet with a gross tonnage of 6,000 tons. They will each carry 2,000 persons and have sleeping accommodation for 423 persons. The vessels will be flyers in every sense of the word, their contracts calling for a speed of 23 knots an hour. Denny Bros. have gained world-wide reputation for building speedy craft and no doubt will give the engines of the Margaret and Irene a few extra revolutions.

USE JAPANESE SHIPS

TO RESUME BUSINESS

C. P. R. Reported to Be Chartering Three Liners for Trans-Pacific Run

There is a persistent report current along the waterfront to the effect that the C. P. R. intends to charter three of the newest steamships launched from Japanese shipyards in order to resume its service between Pacific coast ports and the Orient. The names of the ships to be used are not mentioned, but it is understood that they are owned by either the Nippon Yusen Kaisha or Osaka Shosen Kaisha.

Since the commandeering of the C. P. R.'s entire trans-Pacific fleet by the British admiralty the company has not been able to make a bid for the Oriental business and consequently the transcontinental railway is losing about 5,000 or 6,000 tons of cargo a month. Through the withdrawal of the Empress of Russia, Empress of Asia, Empress of Japan and Montenegro, the earnings of the railway have fallen off considerably. The three new boats will maintain a monthly service, it is reported.

Awa Maru Sailing. This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Yokohama Maru, Capt. Komatsubara, is leaving Victoria for the Far East, laden to her capacity with passengers and general cargo. Among the passengers are several Japanese sight-seeing parties. About 100 Orientals are embarking on the vessel here.

The Awa Maru, of the same fleet, is arriving from the Far East on Thursday morning.

FIRE ON LINER TITAN

FINALLY EXTINGUISHED

After burning a day and a half, the fire which broke out in the Blue Funnel liner Titan, in the Suez canal en route from Victoria to England with a great cargo of foodstuffs, has been extinguished, according to a cablegram received from Port Said this morning. The fire was confined to one hold, which was flooded. No details were given as to the extent of the damage.

DECLARATION CONCESSION.

London, Oct. 20.—The board of trade authorities state that the concession made to Canadian timber exporters allowing them to ship with unrestricted deckloads will expire November 15, as in the case of Norway and Sweden, and not on November 30, as originally announced. After the former date mainstays level cargoes will be restored.

AVETERAN WHO WAS WITH LORD ROBERTS

Laid Low With Rheumatism—But Cured by "Fruit-a-lives"

"Chatham, Ont., April 3, 1913. I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, volunteering from the Royal Artillery into the Royal Engineers, and served under Lord Roberts during the Indian Mutiny, and as a pensioner of the British government. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk.

"Fruit-a-lives" They cured me of both the Rheumatism and Constipation. In my regular employment, I walk thirty miles a day and enjoy perfect health.

LINER PASSES CLOSE

TO GERMAN CRUISERS

Buena Ventura Docks From New York; Changed Flag While at Valparaiso

Two German cruisers were heard exchanging radiograms last Thursday night by the wireless operator on board the Maple Leaf liner Buena Ventura, Capt. Fitzsimmons, which reached Victoria early this morning after a lengthy voyage from New York. The steamship was off Point Arguello, a short distance north of Los Angeles, when the first messages were picked up and Capt. Fitzsimmons says that he thought the fighting ships were not more than 50 miles away as the sparks could be heard quite distinctly.

Those on board the Buena Ventura were unable to learn anything from the messages as they were sent in code, but through what he knows of the code Capt. Fitzsimmons is certain that the vessels exchanging the radiograms were German. He ventured the opinion that the ships were bound south as when the messages were first heard they were very strong, but towards morning they became very faint and finally were lost.

Might Have Been Prize. If the German cruisers had run across the Buena Ventura she most likely would have proven a prize of war, despite the fact that she flies the Stars and Stripes. When the steamship left New York for Victoria she was under British registry, but while discharging cargo at Valparaiso she received orders from her owners to change to the American flag. This was carried out. A vessel to avoid capture must have made the change of flags 90 days before the outbreak of hostilities, otherwise she can be made a prize by any of the belligerent nations.

In the case of the Buena Ventura if she had been overhauled by the Germans, a look at the Stars and Stripes floating over her taffrail might have convinced those on the fighting craft that she was not liable to seizure, but it the Germans had been short of coal and had made a search of the ship's papers, she would undoubtedly have forced the same fate as the British steamship Edithore and Bankfield, which were sent to the bottom off the west coast of South America.

There is such a powerful element of failure in all human affairs, that a shrewd man is always saying to himself, "What shall I do if that which I count upon does not come out as I expect? This forethought dwarfs and crushes all but men of great resolution.—Sir Arthur Helps.

PLAYERS HAVE NO SHOW TO DRAW

PAY FOR FULL NORTHWESTERN SEASON

Secretary Farrell Sanctioned Move; Marty O'Toole Signs With Pittsburgh

According to Owner Joshua Kingham, there is absolutely no chance of the Northwestern League players getting their extra two weeks' pay upon their appeal to the National Commission. It is rumored that Charlie Swain, the Seattle outfielder, who went east for the World's Series, took the matter up with President Dave Ritz, of the Players' Fraternity, but the latter body will be helpless as it was Secretary Farrell, of the National Commission, who sanctioned the cutting of the Northwestern League schedule by two weeks. The players are not free agents, either, as some think, as the league simply sliced its schedule and did not disband as in the case of the Union association and Tri-State league.

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—Branded as a trust and alleged to be operating in violation of the Sherman law, the Pacific Coast Baseball league, it was announced here today, will be subjected to a rigid investigation next week by United States District Attorney Preston. Two other so-called trusts will be investigated, one handling manufactured articles of various kinds and the other the wine trust.

BAYLEY EAGER TO RE-ENTER THE RING

Local Lightweight Secures Bout in 'Frisco; Boxers Flee From Australia

His efforts to secure a return bout with champion Johnny O'Leary being fruitless, Joe Bayley, the clever local lightweight, leaves this week-end for San Francisco in search of big game. Joe has received a wire from Jimmy Coffroth, offering him a bout in the elimination tourney now on in 'Frisco, with either Joe Azevedo, Red Watson, Young Saylor, Eddie May or Fighting Dick Hyland. Joe readily accepted. He has been hunting in the mountains of the Cowichan district for some weeks, and claims to be in perfect condition. His hands are also in shape. Coffroth plans a busy season for the boxers in 'Frisco. Since the war outbreak boxers are fleeing from Australia and England to the States, and are eager for bouts. Three American boxers arrived on Friday last from Australia. They are Eddie McGorty, the Oshkosh middleweight, and two New York lightweights, Young Joe Shugrue and Bobby Moore. McGorty had a very successful season in the Antipodes, winning seven out of eight battles and losing his eighth bout on a foul to Jimmy Clabby. He is anxious to meet the winner of the Clabby-Chip fight, while Shugrue and Moore are eager to compete in Coffroth's elimination tourney.

The stellar contest now on the California fight programme is the bout on November 9 between Jimmy Clabby and George Chip, a 20-round affair, being advertised as the world's middleweight championship. Another classy card on the programme is the four-round clash between Johnny Dundee, of New York, and Willie Ritchie, former lightweight titleholder, to take place in 'Frisco the night of October 23. This is Ritchie's first battle since the departure of his lightweight crown to Freddie Welsh.

The Sailor Petrosky-Billy Murray battle, a contest between two boxers striving to return to the limelight, should provide interest. These two huskies mix at 'Frisco on Thanksgiving Day.

News arrives from the east that Knockout Brown is out with a challenge to America's premier lightweight aspirant, Knockout was a likely aspirant for the lightweight crown two years ago, and will attempt to fight his way back into the limelight.

Boxing in New York city is not prohibited.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Seattle Very Much in Limelight.

With Leslie Mann coming through with the hit that won the second game of the world's series for the Braves and Bill James holding the Athletics to a pair of hits, one of them an infield tap, Seattle is more than tickled with the showing of its former stars. Whaling did not show, but with Gowdy hitting the ball like he did, Stallings did not have to change his backstop. The Braves traveled at the same cyclonic speed that marked their final rush through the National league. They have a great bunch of fighters and Stallings is stamped the greatest leader of all time. As pinch hitters, the Braves have shown themselves to be in a class that only champions reach.

Inman Charges That Table Was Doctored.

In the first series of billiard matches for the world's cue title a serious charge has been made by the British champion. After the first night's play he discovered that the ivory would not travel at their accustomed speed and upon investigation it was found that the cloth was not as fast as that which the regulations call for. Manager Benjamin, who is handling Inman, immediately took the matter up with the manufacturers of the table, with the result that they promised to supply new cloth for the balance of the matches. Inman is far from being discouraged because of his two defeats at the hands of the American champion, but says that with further practice at the American style of play he will be able to overcome Hoppe's advantage at this style of play.

Called Quitting Over Here.

The heart of the Kaiser's third son became so agitated during the heat of battle, he collapsed altogether. This is a common occurrence on the football field, but goes by another name.

Portland still leads in team hitting, with a mark of 2.28, with Los Angeles nine points behind. San Francisco, although it is in second place, is the weakest hitting club in the organization, with a record of .252.

Venue leads in team fielding with an average of .963. The Seals are one point behind in this department and Portland is fifth, with .959.

Averages figured on games up to Tuesday, October 13, are as follows:

Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—Pitcher Marty O'Toole has signed a 1915 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The New York Nationals purchased O'Toole from Pittsburgh in August, but returned him at the close of the season. It is announced that New York declined to pay the balance of the purchase price.

gressing so rapidly as on the coast, owing to the fact that the boxers' demands for ten-round bouts are too high. Leach Cross and Charlie White have the nerve to demand $4,000 for a ten-round bout with Kid Lewis, of England.

The opening of Coffroth's elimination tourney last Friday night brought eliminated the Veteran Dick Hyland, who after taking a severe lashing was dropped for the fatal count in the sixteenth, at the hands of Red Watson. The result of the Milburn Saylor-Eddie May bout was a draw. Saylor landed the heavier blows, but May landed more often.

NICKALLS RETURNS TO YALE OARSMEN

Guy Nickalls, the noted English rowing coach, is back at New Haven to begin the autumn coaching of the Yale crews. Nickalls will have a number of new men and several veterans under his eye.

Nickalls' fall season at New Haven will last six weeks, after which he will return to England, not to come back until late in February.

No definite plans have been formulated as yet, but from what Mr. Nickalls says it looks as though there would be no races with any outsiders this autumn. Also it seems most probable that Yale will adhere to the American style oar locks, and will stick to the level slides, not using the incline. The slides, however, will almost undoubtedly be placed directly over the keel—not on alternate sides of the boat.

That Yale could easily have won the Henley regatta, which was captured by the Harvard second crew, is the opinion of Nickalls.

"I have no doubt," he said, "that the Yale crew could have won the race at Henley this year."

Yesterday afternoon teams representing the various companies of the 50th Highlanders, shot the first stage of a very interesting competition for a cup presented by Ben Taylor, who is endeavoring to give a stimulus to rifle shooting.

There was very keen competition, which resulted in the staff taking the leading position, with F and A companies close behind. The next stage will consist of rapid-fire shooting at a disappearing target. Following were the scores yesterday:

Y. M. C. A. JUNIORS ORGANIZE FOR YEAR

The Y. M. C. A. junior soccer club organized last night and appointed the following officials: President, Arthur Middleton; secretary, Angus McKinnon; captain, Arthur Dowell; vice-captain, Roy Hatch; manager, Wm. M. Baker.

The first game of the league will be played next Saturday against the Canteen Boys' club. It was decided to play in black sweaters until the regular uniform is settled upon. Captain Art Dowell claims that he will have a winning team, having an especially strong defence and an equally aggressive offence. Roy Hatch was appointed as the club representative to the Soccer association meetings.

One district of New York, covering barely two square miles, is shown to be the wealthiest centre in the world. The number of persons there with incomes ranging from $1,000 to $200,000 a year is between fifteen and twenty thousand, and it was from there that the bulk of the American income tax was secured.

IRVINE SAYS HE WILL NOT TURN PRO.

Torontos Sign Up Holmes and Wilson for N. H. A. Season; Lindsay Heard From

Winnipeg, Oct. 20.—Although coast papers have Dick Irvine, the brilliant little Monarch centre, signed for a trial in the Patrick league it is all news to the local boy. "I have not had any word from the Patricks nor has any offer been made," stated Dick today. "At present I have no intention of leaving Winnipeg. I have not heard of any local player receiving an offer from the coast league."

Torontos are evidently taking no chances on a new league going through in the east and they have already started signing up their world's champions. The club have signed up Harry Holmes, their crack goal-tend, and Cully Wilson, one of their forwards, and they look for all the men to sign, up very shortly. It is rumored that Jack Walker will hold out for more coin, while Allan Davidson has left with the first contingent. The Torontos have a host of youngsters who will battle for places on the Stanley cup holders, and they should once more lead the N. H. A. Jimmy Murphy's Ontarios will be a greatly changed club, McLaughlin, of Grand Meer, being one of those slated for a tryout, while Murphy is also after Ritchie, the star defence player of the same club.

Pert Lindsay will again be with the Victoria club, a letter having been received from Lindsay who is situated at Renfrew. He will be along the middle of next month when the Victoria squad will start practising for the coming season.

A meeting of the P. C. H. A. will be held at Vancouver this week, and it is expected that a number of trades will go through. Victoria players being wanted in Portland, while the Senators are likely to get one of the former Westminster forwards.

Besides landing the batting title, Kauff stole more bases than any other Federal leaguer, totalling 75, and also led in number of hits, number of runs scored and in total bases. His record follows:

G. A. B. R. H. S. B. P. C.	Kauff	...
...	154	574
...	116	210

The Federal "three hundred hitters" besides Kauff were Chase, Buffalo, 354; Evans, Brooklyn, 333; Rousch, Indianapolis, 333; Yerkes, Pittsburgh, 333; Easterly, Kansas City, 331; Shaw, Brooklyn, 322; Lennox, Pittsburgh, 317; Kenworthy, Kansas City, 316; Campbell, Indianapolis, 314; Loudon, Buffalo, 313; Crandall, St. Louis, 313; Walsh, Baltimore, 312; Murphy, Brooklyn, 311; Oakes, Pittsburgh, 311; Laporte, Indianapolis, 311; Anderson, Brooklyn, 310; Scher, Indianapolis, 309; Zwilling, Chicago, 308; Meyer, Baltimore, 307; McDonald, Buffalo, 307; McKechnie, Indianapolis, 305; Bradley, Pittsburgh, 302.

Indianapolis and Brooklyn led in club batting with 284 and 269 each. Zwilling had most home runs, 16. Leading pitchers were Ford, Buffalo, 21 victories and 7 defeats; Hendrix, Chicago, 29 and 11, and Quinn, Baltimore, 26 and 14.

WARDS HONORED BY THE B. C. F. A.

Local Eleven to Have Club Name Upon McBride Shield; New Soldiers' League

North Wards may not secure possession of the McBride Shield because of the fact that their club has dropped out of senior soccer this year, but the winners of the Island Title of last year will have their name engraved upon the Shield as the winners for 1914. This was decided upon at meeting of A. A. U. on Saturday, when the question of affiliation between the B. C. F. A. and A. A. U. was also discussed. The B. C. F. A. will control the Shield insofar as conditions and arrangements for games are concerned but the trophy will still remain the property of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Preparations are now under way for the formation of a Regimental Soccer League, in which teams from the B. C. Horse, 50th Regiment, 88th Fusiliers, 5th Regiment, Navy and Royal Canadian Engineers will compete for the handsome silver cup donated by A. Lipsky, of the Willows Hotel. The Navy are being admitted into the league with the understanding that they cannot play Tars from visiting ships.

The first meeting of the League officers will be held to-night at 7 o'clock at the Willows Camp. Acting-Secretary Trooper Mossley, of the B. C. Horse, requests the presence of the secretaries of each club. A series of twelve matches will be played which will require about a month or six weeks to complete.

The following soccer players of the Willows Camp have been selected to play against the Phoenix Strollers on Wednesday afternoon: Goal, Pte. Cicci (50th); backs, Col-Sergt. Sheriff (50th) and Tpr. H. Truman (B. C. H.); half-backs, Tpr. H. Pope (B. C. H.) and Sergt. Reekie (50th); forwards, Tpr. P. Drakes (B. C. H.), Tpr. W. Mitchell (B. C. H.), Tpr. J. Hines (B. C. H.) Col-Sergt. Otter (50th) and Pte. Smithson (50th). Reserves: Tpr. Welsh (B.C.H.), Pte. Bagnall (50th) and Pte. Patterson (50th). S. S. Major R. A. Meakin (B.C.H.) will referee. The match will be played at the Willows and will start at 3.30 o'clock.

No war chronicled by history have devoured such huge sums of money as the present battle of the nations. There are about 8,500,000 men at present under arms for land warfare, and to that number must be added 340,000 seamen. If the Balkan war is taken as an example, the cost of each man mobilized amounts to 10s. a day. This gives about £4,400,000 daily, or £132,000,000 monthly.

CUP FIXTURES TO BE RESUMED HERE

Harvard is Now Anxious to Have Canucks Demonstrate Open Rugby Game in East

McKechnie cup rugby fixtures will be resumed between Victoria and Vancouver on November 14 at Oak Bay, when the Vancouver Rugby union will send a representative fifteen to the capital for this contest. Secretary Geo. Nicholson interviewed the members of the Vancouver union while at the mainland on Saturday, and he was assured that the Terminals will send over a very strong club. A meeting of the British Columbia Rugby union will be held shortly to ratify and sanction the McKechnie cup contests. It is also possible that several intermediate rugby fixtures will be arranged between the Victoria and Vancouver, the Mainland McGill club being anxious to secure matches with a Victoria fifteen.

Hamilton, Oct. 20.—It was announced on Sunday that the visit of the Rowing club players to Harvard university this week has been postponed. The intention was for three

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the greatest remedy for women's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state that their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

HIS GRAND DEATH.

The first connected narrative of the severe fighting in which the King's Own Royal Lancaster Regiment was engaged on Aug. 28, when it killed and wounded the regiment had eleven officers put out of action, is told by a sergeant of the regiment who has just arrived home wounded. The King's Own, with the Lancashire Fusiliers and the Middlesex Regiment, were ordered to cover the retreat of part of the allied forces from Mons. The allies resisted the advance inch by inch, fighting becoming so close that the King's Own got home with several dashing bayonet charges, one of the most brilliant of which was led by Capt. Clutterbuck, formerly a ranker of the Yorkshire Light Infantry, who, with a handful of men, routed four times the number under his command. He paid the price of his gallantry with his life, but the casualties to his men were singularly light. The sergeant added:

"It was just like Clutterbuck. Then there was Lieut. Steele-Perkins, who died one of the grandest deaths a British officer could wish for. He was lifted out of the trenches wounded four times, but protesting, crawled back again till he was mortally wounded. The first man knocked over was one of the most popular of the Rugby footballers in the Dover garrison. He was shot through the mouth."

WHY NAMUR FELL.

The mystery of the sudden fall of Namur, which had been expected to hold out for months, is partly cleared up by accounts which have been given by members of the garrison.

According to these accounts, says a Reuter Ostend message, the Namur general staff made two mistakes.

(1) They let the enemy come too close without attacking him.

(2) They waited too long for the help they expected from the French, who, fully occupied elsewhere, were unable to send assistance in time.

For a week the Belgian forces on the one bank of the Meuse waited for the Germans on the other bank to attack, thinking that every day that thus passed was a day gained.

During this time, however, the Germans were painfully bringing up their slow-moving, enormously heavy siege artillery, the power and even the existence of which have only been revealed since the outbreak of war.

Under cover of a fog the Germans finally got about thirty-two of their new siege guns into position at a point whence they could concentrate their fire on a single sector of the defences.

They were placed at a minimum distance of three miles from the Belgian trenches, out of range of the Belgian guns.

Russia's Campaign--Cossacks in Galicia

COSSACKS PASSING THROUGH A GALICIAN VILLAGE—NATIONAL SCHOOL IN BACKGROUND

The Cossack is altogether unique; his ways are his own, and his confidence is his officers and himself is perfect; his passionate love of horses makes his work a pleasure. As an all-round fighter he is probably what the Kaiser would wish his Chians to be, excepting that the Cossack makes war on enemies only. The Cossack seat is a high pad-saddle with the knee almost vertical and the heel drawn well back. Spurs are not worn. Another very remarkable thing is that he has absolutely no guard to his sword. The Russian soldier scorns buttons; they, he says, "are a nuisance, they have to be cleaned, they wear away the cloth, they are heavy, and they attract the attention of the enemy." The Cossack pony is a quaint little beast to look at, but the finest living animal for his work, and very remarkable for his wonderful powers of endurance. The Cossack and his mount have been likened to a clever nurse and a spoilt child—each understands and loves the other, but neither is completely under control. The Cossack does not want his horse to be a slave, and he recognizes perfectly that horses, like children, have their whims and humors and must be coaxed and reasoned with, but rarely punished. The famous knout (whip) is carried at the end of a strap across the left shoulder. The drawing shows the full dress, with the fur cap stuck jauntily on his head of square, cut hair. The appearance of these men is quite different from the clean-shaven regular infantryman of the Russian army.

Predicts Holland's Entry Into War in Three Weeks

"We Can Protect Our Country But Not Our Colonies," Dutchman Tells Clyde B. Furst, When Asked on Which Side Nation Will Fight.

Holland in the war within four weeks. That was the prediction made to Clyde B. Furst, secretary of the Carnegie Foundation, of New York, by a representative of the "Hollander" when Mr. Furst was leaving Rotterdam less than three weeks ago.

When Mr. Furst's Dutch acquaintance made that prediction the natural question, "On which side?" brought the answer:

"I cannot tell you that, but you can imagine it by my saying that we can protect our country, but we cannot protect our colonies."

Holland's colonies with their 35,000,000 people, as contrasted with the 6,000,000 Hollanders, are her very life blood, and most of those to whom the Hollander's cryptic remark was repeated read "on the side of the allies" as the answer to the riddle.

"Another man," said Mr. Furst, "drew for me lines on the map to show how the Hollanders are prepared to encircle their cities with bands of water a half mile wide as a means of defence, before resorting to the flooding of half the country, which they can do at need."

After being in Germany and Switzerland and again in Germany during the greater part of the first month of the war Mr. Furst spent ten days in Rotterdam.

Feeling in Holland mixed.

"Feeling in Holland is much mixed," he said. "To illustrate, one day I was with friends of mine had a quarrel because one was pro-German and the other pro-British. Naturally there are all sorts of rumors current. Dr. Van Dyke, the American minister, told me that more lies had been told in ten days since the war started than in ten years before."

As an example of the stories which, whether true or not, had the popular belief there was one, Mr. Furst said, that the Prince Consort had slipped over into Belgium to a place occupied by the Germans to visit his old regiment, which was on the fighting line. The imperial council, so the story ran, had sent the Prince Consort a message, which read:

"Come back at once, or not at all."

It was the evident desire of most Hollanders to maintain neutrality, Mr. Furst said, the only differences among those among whom he talked being on which side the country should declare itself in the conflict. He witnessed the opening of the Dutch parliament, the procession which preceded it, and heard the speech of the queen. The procession lost some of its usual brilliancy because of the mobilization of the Dutch army, but it was an interesting event for all that.

The enthusiastic crowds seemed strictly neutral. The queen's speech, in which she said "The neutrality of Holland has been and will be maintained," aroused great enthusiasm among the people at large. The motto of Holland is "Neutrality will be maintained," and the queen's subjects were much pleased with her clever use of the phrase.

Exchange of Amenities.

Concerning the division of popular sentiment Mr. Furst was unwilling to draw general conclusions, but narrated other instances. He was with a Dutch friend when they met an English doctor who greeted the Hollander with:

"What is awful what the Germans are doing in Belgium?"

"Yes, replied the Hollander, 'almost as bad as what you English did to the Boers in South Africa.'"

"On the other hand," said Mr. Furst, "there is Prof. Roulin, librarian at the Peace Palace and formerly professor of international law at Ghent. He has five sons in the French and Belgian armies, and one or perhaps more of them have been killed. You can know what his attitude must be."

Mr. Furst said that many terrible stories of German atrocities are current in Holland and that a great many persons believe them. To offset this there was a report in a Dutch newspaper that a commission of Dutch journalists had made investigations in Belgium and had reported that the atrocity stories were untrue. But when Mr. Furst spoke of the story about the commission to a man in a position to know the latter shook his head as though to say that the story was untrue.

A woman of rank who had housed a number of Belgian refugees said to Mr. Furst: "Every time they talk the story grows more terrible." She was inclined to believe that in spite of exaggerations, natural under the circumstances, there must be much underlying truth.

Mr. Furst himself had nothing but praise for what he had seen during the three weeks he was in Germany. He was impressed by the wonderful orderliness of everything and testifies that the French wounded that he saw were treated exactly as were the German wounded.

Dr. Walter a Guard.

As illustrative of the fact that personalities were lost when the men became cogs in the great German war machine, Mr. Furst said that on August 1, the day notices that war had been declared were posted, being in Frankfurt he telephoned to the home of Dr. Max Walter, an international authority on the teaching of modern languages, and was told:

"Dr. Walter is chief of the guard at the south station."

"Dr. Walter," said Mr. Furst, "lectured at Columbia University four or five years ago and had agreed to come back here during the present year. He is 58 years old and round as a butter ball. It was significant to find him chief of the guard at the first call. We visited him and found Mrs. Walter making the one daily call on her husband that was allowed. They have two sons, one 19, the other 20; one was sent to the French and the other to the Russian border. I heard that one was wounded and sent home."

"There was no mistaking the sentiment in Germany," he continued. "It was evident to any one that the nation had risen as one man to meet what everybody I talked with in the early days of the war believed to be the defence of their country. There is no doubt that the common people at least believed absolutely that the French and the Russians had come over the borders and that they must rise and defend their land. Everywhere people said to me 'We didn't want war, it was pressed upon us.'"

"There was no mistaking the sentiment in Germany," he continued. "It was evident to any one that the nation had risen as one man to meet what everybody I talked with in the early days of the war believed to be the defence of their country. There is no doubt that the common people at least believed absolutely that the French and the Russians had come over the borders and that they must rise and defend their land. Everywhere people said to me 'We didn't want war, it was pressed upon us.'"

SATISFACTORY SITE FOR CEMETERY FOUND

Committee Recommends That Council Purchase Land Adjacent to Mount Douglas

One of the best reports, as to convenience and information, prepared for the city council this year, was presented by the cemetery committee at the council meeting last evening. It dealt with the provision of a new cemetery. Of the several locations examined the committee most strongly recommended a site adjacent to Mount Douglas park, and this will be visited by the whole council in the near future. The committee reported that it had arranged for options on the following properties, the owners of which are willing to accept city bonds at par, bearing interest at four and one-half per cent, in payment for the land: Sixty acres at Royal Oak at $1,400 per acre; 50 acres at Colwood, $425 per acre; 184 acres between Cedar Hill cross road and Lost Lake road, at $1,325, $1,425 and $1,775 per acre; 98 acres between Cedar Hill road and Gordon Head road, at $1,800 per acre. The parcel which the committee strongly favored buying was 104 acres of part of section 52 and sections 86 and 90, adjoining Mount Douglas park on the south and east. Just four miles from the city. This parcel is cut in two by the Cedar Hill road, leaving 62 acres on the east and 42 acres on the west. It is well drained, most of it in pasture, and lends itself to artistic development, and on it is a substantial new dwelling. The owners will sell the 42 acres at $1,000 per acre and accept bonds at par bearing 4½ per cent interest, and will give an option until such time as a by-law is voted upon in January. The 62 acres will be sold at the same price, but are under a lease for four years, while the house and garden could be bought for $3,500 cash, payment by July 1, 1915.

The report further pointed out that the establishment of a cemetery near Mount Douglas would hasten the provision of a street railway line to that district. The committee believed the residence mentioned would be very suitable for a caretaker's dwelling. If the council did not approve of the sites offered, the committee expressed its willingness to make a further selection, but after a thorough examination of the advantages of the different sites, it did not think a more satisfactory arrangement could be made than the one proposed.

In moving the adoption of the report, Alderman Sargent, chairman of the committee, urged the desirability of immediate purchase. Ald. McNeill, chairman of last year's cemetery committee, had informed the council at the beginning of the year that the present cemetery would be occupied by the end of 18 months. While he (Alderman Sargent) had made no similar statement, he would say that if the cemetery end of the city's administration was to be carried on in the most advantageous manner, space would be required by the end of another year. Any practical man would agree that it would take a year to fix up the cemetery. It might be desirable for the whole council to examine the sites personally. The alderman on the committee had given a great deal of effort to the search for a good site, and he outlined the circumstances which had guided the committee in its choice. The best service to rich and poor alike called for a site convenient to the city. The house at the Mount Douglas site was practically new. The committee recommended immediate purchase of only the 42 acres. The land across the road was under lease, and if the council bought it as well the revenue from it would help to pay the interest on the bonds. The property should be fenced, the roads planned and some portion of the land should be put in order immediately for use. The prices now quoted were $45,000 less than the figures which would be quoted next June.

Alderman McCandless seconded the adoption of the report. Alderman McNeill believed the land could be secured more cheaply by a cash payment than by the disposal of bonds.

At the request of the council Alderman Sargent withdrew the motion that the report be adopted, and it was decided that the aldermen should visit the sites before passing any resolution.

TENDERS FOR SEWERS

Esquimalt Council to Open These for Constance Cove Section Next Week; Fire Stations in Operation

It did not require many minutes to transact the business before the municipal council of Esquimalt last evening, but steps were taken at it leading up to important developments in the town. On Monday evening next the tenders which are being received for the construction of sewers in section "D", as set forth on the sewer plan of the town, are to be opened, and the council expects that the award of the contract will be made soon after that. The section, which the tenders refer to is that along the shores of Constance Cove. When they are opened a report on them will be asked from the municipal engineer, and it is thought that this can be in by the Monday following.

Gratifying reports were made in regard to the protection of the town from fire, and the councilors expressed themselves as satisfied that as soon as the volunteer brigade is fully organized Esquimalt will have as complete protection as any place of its size in the country. There are two stations now equipped and in operation, one being at the municipal hall and the other at the corner of Craigflower road and 1st Avenue. Councillor Mesher is in charge of the organization of the section of the brigade which will be connected with the central hall, and George Burns is the captain of the Craigflower road section of the brigade.

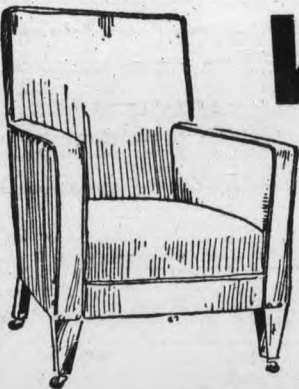

The laying of a plank sidewalk on the north side of Stanley street between Head and Rithet streets, was ordered.

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps.)
You can keep your skin free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.

A Missouri farmer whose son was an applicant for a position under the government, but who had been repeatedly turned down, said: "Well, it's hard luck, but Joe has missed that civil service again. It looks like they just won't have him." "What was the trouble?" "Oh, he was short on spelling and geography, and missed a good deal in arithmetic." "What's he going to do about it?" "I dunno," said the farmer. "Times is mighty hard, an' I reckon he'll have to go back to teaching school for a livin'."
